ROFITS ARE TAKEN; STOCK PRICES ARE IRREGULAR

xtensive Week-End Readjustment of Speculative Accounts Main Factor in Price Movements.

TILITIES LEAD IN TRADE OF DAY

merican & Foreign Power Up 5 1-2 Points — Declines of Point or Two in Fairly Broad List.

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The tock market closed irregular toay but the main price tendency ill appeared to be upward. Weeknd profit-taking was rather larger han usual because of the sharp vance in many issues during the ast week, and there was a moderte amount of short selling, but the market continued to give evidence f strong buying power.

There was little in the day's news o influence price movements. Coper statistics for March were again nfavorable, and the red metal isues dragged around the low levels f the year. It will be a year on uesday since the 18 cents a pound rice for copper was put into effect, with opinion still divided over the ability of the producers to maintain that level. Private dispatches from Youngstown indicated that an upturn in steel mill activity was likely in that center next week.

Utilities in Lead.

Public Utilities, which have been e source of many merger rumors n recent weeks, some of them denied, again led the market in point of activity. American & Foreign Power was the leader, closing 5½ points higher. International Telephone was marked up more than 2 points to within 1¾ points of the year's high, but American Telephone improved only fractionally. Public Service of New Jersey ran into some realizg after its sharp advance earlier the week, closing 2⅝ points lower.

National Air Transport, after an early period of heaviness ran up to a new high at 36 and closed at 35 for a net gain of 1½ points. Efforts of United Aircraft interests to obtain control of the directorate proved unsuccessful at the annual stockholders meeting. United Aircraft showed a net loss of 1⅝ points at 88⅛.

New high records for the year were established by Beatrice Creamery, McKesson & Robbins, International Paper "B," Fourth National Investors and a sprinkling of other specialties. Eastman Kodak closed 5 points higher.

Houston Oil Lower.

Houston Oil and J. I. Case lost 2⅝ points and declines of a point or two were spread over a fairly broad list, including such issues as rn Products, Loose Wiles, Underwood Elliott Fisher, Air Reduction and Worthington Pump.

Trading was in fairly heavy volume for a half holiday session, the day's sales running above 2,100,000 shares.

Foreign exchanges showed an easier undertone, although changes generally were of a nominal nature. Sterling cables ruled a shade lower at $4.86 3-16.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 7A, 8A and 9A.

TOKIO STOCK EXCHANGE REOPENS; TRADING ORDERLY

Yesterday's Closing and Stampede of Selling Attributed to Opponents of Administration.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 12.—The Tokio Stock Exchange reopened today after a one-day suspension. Trading was orderly and prices steady.

A stampede of selling yesterday, which led to wild scenes in the exchange and subsequent suspension, was characterized by Cabinet members as a result of manipulation by opponents of the administration.

Exchange officials announced a one-hour suspension yesterday when a bear trend first became evident. A near panic followed reopening and all trading for the day was called off.

EQUALIZERS ADD $35,293,000 TO BANK ASSESSMENT

City Board Decides to Increase Personal Property Levy Against 19 Depositories.

The city Board of Equalization, at its final meeting this afternoon, announced its decision to add $35,293,000 to the personal property assessments of 19 banks and trust companies. The banks and trust companies, the board holds, have been evading taxation on Government securities by the device of "inside" holding companies.

The Board found that the total of capital, surplus and undivided profits of banks and trust companies was $100,391,510, but that the amount returned for assessment was $50,928,450, of which $17,588,530 was real estate, held to be properly assessed, and $33,339,820 was personal property, held to be an insufficient return to which the Board of Equalization seeks to add $35,293,000.

The largest three increases which the Board of Equalization made in the assessments of the various banks were: First National Bank, increased by $10,544,130; Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., $9,662,140, and Mississippi Valley Trust Co., $6,769,880.

The proposed increase in assessments will probably be contested by the banks and trust companies, which declined proposals for compromise in the assessment figures. They will stand on a decision of the State Supreme Court in 1923, which upheld the right of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. to hold its Government securities through a subsidiary company, which was not taxed on them, the trust company in turn not being taxed on its stock in the holding company. If the city's attempt to overturn this decision should succeed, the increased assessment would increase city, State and school taxes by $945,000.

LONDON, April 12. — There hasn't been much summer in England so far but summer time nevertheless will go into effect officially at 2 a. m. tomorrow when clocks will be set one hour ahead. Some clocks in the city financial district showed summer time this afternoon.

Daylight saving in the United States will go into effect April 27 in most of the communities that use it.

STEEL MERGER VOTED; CONTEST IN COURTS LIKELY

Stockholders of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Agree to Consolidate With Bethlehem Steel.

COMBINE SECOND IN INDUSTRY IN U. S.

Cleveland Financier, Who Opposed Deal, Says He Will Continue Legal Fight to Block It.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 12.—Merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation today bore the approval of stockholders, but final consummation of the billion-dollar deal must run a gantlet of court action.

Announcement that 857,821 shares of Sheet and Tube stock, 58,080 more than the necessary two-thirds majority, had been voted in favor of the consolidation, was made last night.

Immediately afterwards, Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier who has opposed the deal with all the resources at the command of his millions, declared he will fight on through the courts and spend his last penny if necessary to frustrate the merger.

The vote, election inspectors announced, was based on stock held as of record March 22, and part of Eaton's fight has been based on the contention that more than 91,000 shares transferred since that date should not have been voted.

As stock not voted has the same effect as if it were voted negatively, the whole 91,000 block would be deducted from the vote for the merger if Eaton's point is upheld, leaving the management short of the necessary two-thirds by more than 30,000 shares.

Injuction Dissolved.

The vote was announced after Common Pleas Judge C. S. Turnbaugh dissolved a temporary injunction obtained by the Eaton forces which restrained recording of the tabulation. The opposition today was prepared to appeal this decision. Eaton's forces also announced a variety of suits will be filed attacking the validity of the merger on the ground that it was "railroaded through" and is detrimental to Sheet and Tube interests.

Eugene C. Grace, president of Bethlehem, and James A. Campbell, chairman of Sheet and Tube, accepted the vote as a victory for the merger and announced that it "certainly will be consummated."

Both said the actual combination cannot take place until the court fights have ended, but were confident of success.

Second to U. S. Steel.

Final ratification of the merger, adding Sheet and Tube's assets of $235,000,000 to Bethlehem Steel's $800,000,000, would place Bethlehem securely in second place among the nation's steel combinations, surpassed only by the United States Steel Corporation.

The transaction is on the basis of four shares of Bethlehem common for three of Sheet and Tube and amounts to a virtual sale, although Bethlehem executives promised the Youngstown concern would be operated as a subsidiary. Eaton opposed the deal on the ground that the offer was too low and that Sheet and Tube's interests would be better served by a merger with Inland Steel of Chicago.

Merger proponents said the products of the two concerns complemented each other and that consolidation was the logical course.

U. S. to Investigate Merger for Possible Restraint of Trade.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Department of Justice officials said today the merger of the Bethlehem Steel Co. and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. would be investigated to determine whether any restraint of trade that might lay the basis for charges of monopoly would result.

It was pointed out that years ago the Supreme Court declined to sustain antitrust charges when the United Steel Corporation merged a group of smaller plants on the ground it would not control 50 per cent of the steel output. The merged Bethlehem - Youngstown company, it was said, would control only about 20 per cent of the national production.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN TAKEN FROM RIVER, APPARENTLY SLAIN

Body, With Fracture at Base of Skull, Possibly That of Gangster Sought in Bookmakers' Kidnapings.

AUTOPSY MADE AT ANTONIO, MO.

No Water in Lungs — Measurements to Be Compared With Those of Gunman on File Here.

A man, whose body was found floating in the Mississippi River, near the mouth of the Meramec, yesterday, apparently had been slain and the body thrown in the river, an autopsy today disclosed. Death was caused by a fracture at the base of the skull, Dr. Walter Gibson, Jefferson County Coroner, who performed the autopsy at Antonio, Mo., found. There was no water in the lungs.

St. Louis detectives attended the autopsy as the result of information that a St. Louis gangster, who has been sought for questioning in kidnapings of bookmakers, had been slain by the "other side," and his body thrown in the river. The body had been in the water about a week, making the features unrecognizable, and the detectives took measurements to compare them with the physical characteristics of the gangster on file at Police Headquarters. Upon their return to St. Louis the officers said they were unable to identify the body.

Dr. Gibson was unable to determine the manner in which the man had suffered the fatal injury. There were two lacerations on the back of the head and the skull was fractured. Because of the condition of the body it was buried at Antonio this afternoon. Relatives of a missing St. Louis man inspected the clothing and departed satisfied that the body was not that of the man they sought.

The body was described as that of a man about 35 years old, weighing 150 pounds, 5 feet 6 inches tall, with dark brown hair. Except for matches, the pockets of the clothing contained nothing, and there were no labels in the suit. The clothing was of good quality, and included a complete brown checked suit, white shirt with red dots and collar attached, red and blue tie, and tan lowcut shoes, size 6½.

BRITISH OFFICIAL GETS LOST IN MORROW'S CLOTHES CLOSET

His Dignity Ruffled When He Mistakes Door for Exit of Suite.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 12.—A clothes closet in the suite of Ambassador Morrow at the Ritz Hotel has undone the dignity of at least one attache to the British Foreign Office.

Several times the Ambassador has mistaken the door of the vestibule closet for his suite for the exit and has walked into the closet, but his personal staff has carefully avoided it.

H. W. Malkin, legal adviser to the Foreign Office, leaving Morrow's suite after a consultation on the naval treaty draft, mistook the closet door for the exit, and cheerfully went inside and started to close it behind him. He finally untangled himself from the overcoats inside and left, somewhat flustered at his experience.

AMERICAN STEERS CAMBRIDGE TO VICTORY OVER OXFORD

Robert Edgerton Swartwout Coxswain in 82d Boat Race Classic on Thames.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—An American, Robert Edgerton Swartwout, steered the Cambridge shell to victory over Oxford today in the eighty-second renewal of the English crew classic on the Thames.

Swartwout is 24 years old, weighs 105 pounds and is one of the lightest coxswains in the 101-year history of the Oxford-Cambridge regatta.

His father, Edgerton Swartwout, a New York architect, remarked before the race that his son's powerful bass voice had a great deal to do with the youth's success in landing a place in the Cambridge crew.

Swartwout went to Cambridge six years ago from Middlesex School, Concord, Mass., and is doing research work in English literature.

QUARTER TEASPOON OF SUGAR RESULTS IN DRY CONVICTION

On It Depends Proof of the Illegality of Michigan Sheriff's Beer.

By the Associated Press.

MARQUETTE, Mich., April 12.—The difference between a half and a quarter teaspoon of sugar in its effect as producing beer or just near beer brought about the conviction of Sheriff John S. Johnson of Gogebic County late yesterday in Federal Court here for manufacturing and possessing a beverage containing more than .50 per cent alcohol.

Sheriff Johnson, owner of a bottling plant at Bessemer, was indicted as responsible for the manufacture there of beer by John Seeke, who was placed in charge of the plant when Johnson took office on Jan. 1, 1927.

Government chemists testified that brew seized in the plant last November showed 1.36 to 2.29 per cent alcoholic content. Johnson declared that if such were the case Seeke did not follow his instructions on how to make near beer. He detailed what he said were his instructions, placing emphasis on a quarter teaspoon of sugar.

The defense introduced Dr. George John, Detroit, who said the formula would produce near beer with the legal alcoholic content of .46 per cent.

Seeke testified, however, that Johnson's directions were to use "one-fourth to one-half teaspoon of sugar." John Matchett, Government chemist, was called into court and directed to make a brew under Seeke's direction and returned a report that the beer so made tested .86 per cent alcohol without the addition of sugar to the bottle.

Sentence was deferred.

BRUENING GOVERNMENT WINS IN REICHSTAG BY 11 VOTES

Its Insistence That Finance and Farms Be Linked Upheld by Nationalists, Who Desert Leader.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 12.—By the narrow margin of 11 votes, the Government of Chancellor Bruening was sustained by the Reichstag today in its insistence that finance and farms must be linked. The vote was 217 to 206.

Loud cries of "shame" from the Left benches greeted the announcement of the result by Paul Lobe, president of the Reichstag.

All the Social Democrats, including former Chancellor Mueller and Herr Severing, who had abstained from previous test votes, cast ballots against the Government.

The Fascisti and Communists did likewise. Many of the latter were absent, however, fearing that the police might arrest them in event of dissolution of the Reichstag following an adverse vote, since parliamentary immunity would then cease.

The Government was saved by the Nationalists despite the opposition of their leader, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg. Only their diehards stuck to the opposition, and the lineup again showed that Hugenberg no longer was dictator of his party.

HOOVER TRIBUTE TO JEFFERSON

"Noteworthy That Birthday Falls on Palm Sunday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—President Hoover yesterday paid tribute to the memory of Thomas Jefferson in a telegram to Felix M. Warburg of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, New York City.

"The noteworthy and most unusual coincidence that the religious holy day known as Palm Sunday and Passover both occur this year upon the birthday of Thomas Jefferson," he said, "makes it indeed appropriate that the anniversary, on April 13, is to be observed educationally and patriotically with special emphasis upon founding of religious freedom."

FREE SHOPS FOR JOBLESS

Mexico to Give Them Chance to Manufacture Articles.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, April 11.—President Ortiz Rubio yesterday promised a committee representing Mexican unemployed workers that free public work shops would be provided for the unemployed, so that they can manufacture articles for sale.

He also promised that the National Workers' Bank, planned by Provisional President Portes Gil just before the end of his term, would be opened on May 1. The bank is expected to foster small industries, thus providing work for the workless.

FOR BAR ON POPPY SEED TEA

Hungarian Minister Would Forbid Soothing Babies With It.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 12.—The Minister of Social Welfare is drafting a bill to forbid mothers giving poppy-seed tea to infants to keep them quiet while the women are at work in the fields.

School inspectors of the farming districts have reported that the practice is having deleterious effects on the peasant children, the narcotic causing them to display slowness in learning.

EMBEZZLER GOT $100,000 FROM FRISCO, AUDIT SHOWS

PECULATIONS GO BACK TO 1925

Mail Traffic Manager Deposited to His Own Account $42,407 in Checks From One Newspaper Alone.

A checkup today indicated more than $100,000 was embezzled by Oliver D. Chalmers, manager of mail and express traffic for the Frisco Railroad, who was arrested yesterday after making confession, in President Kurn's office, that he had converted company receipts to his own uses and had gambled away most of the proceeds.

The exact amount taken will be determined in an audit being made by the Frisco's accounting department, which may be completed Monday.

Chalmers confessed that he deposited to his personal account checks which came to his desk from the Post-Dispatch, Globe-Democrat and Kansas City Star in payment of charges on newspapers carried in Frisco baggage cars to out-of-town customers of the newspapers.

Post-Dispatch checks deposited by Chalmers to his own account, as shown by a checkup, were 38 in number, total $42,407.59, and extending back to the early part of 1926. Further inquiry today indicated this total might be raised $3000 or more, as it appeared the peculations went back further, into 1925.

$31,708 Kansas City Checks.

The Kansas City Star today announced that the loss to the Frisco from checks issued by the Star and misappropriated by Chalmers apparently was $31,708.72, with a possibly of an increase of $1219.76, as a check for that amount, issued last April 4, has not yet been returned canceled.

W. C. Houser, treasurer of the Globe-Democrat, said that paper had sent $51,000 in checks to the Frisco during the last five years, and he thought the Frisco might have lost $40,000, but he was unable to give exact figures on how many checks had passed through Chalmers' account, as all the canceled checks had been turned over to Frisco officers.

For some reason—perhaps to divert suspicion, perhaps because he was away from his desk on vacations or business trips—Chalmers did not take all the monthly checks sent to the Frisco by the three newspapers. For instance, although he diverted 38 Post-Dispatch checks, 13 other Post-Dispatch checks reached the treasurer of the Frisco and were cashed for the railroad in the regular manner.

The Frisco treasurer deposited the checks in the National Bank of Commerce. Chalmers deposited what checks he handled to his own account at the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Bank, across Olive street from the Frisco offices. He checked the money out almost as fast as he made deposits, and only a small balance remains.

Tip From Bank Embezzler.

Discovery of Chalmers' defalcation resulted from a chance remark by Marvin E. Phillips, assistant cashier of the Scruggs Bank, arrested last Tuesday for admitted embezzlement of $31,600.

"I'm not the only one that's taking what doesn't belong to him," Phillips remarked. "There's lots of guys getting away with it."

Pressed for details, Phillips said checks of the Frisco, averaging $2000 to $3000 a month, were being deposited at his window to a personal account, and the man making the deposits had been seen by him at East Side gambling places, where Phillips lost what funds he embezzled.

Frisco private detectives were notified and conducted a quiet inquiry with the result that Chalmers was called into President Kurn's office yesterday morning and confronted with some of the checks deposited at the Vandervoort bank. He made admissions

WOMAN KILLED, PUT IN CULVERT IN WASHINGTON

Blood in Her Abandoned Auto Leads to Discovery of Body of Navy Department Employe.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12. — A few hours after the finding of her abandoned, blood-stained automobile, the body of Miss Mary Baker, 28 years old, Navy Department employe, was discovered today wedged into a culvert near Arlington National Cemetery. Police after an examination said that she had been shot to death.

Search had been made for Miss Baker since she failed to return home last night from a church meeting.

Miss Baker was the daughter of the Rev. Thomas P. Baker of Oak Grove, Va.

FIREMEN RESCUE CHILD WHOSE FOOT IS CAUGHT IN IRON BOX

Dig Up Section of Water Pipe to Release 2-Year-Old Girl Trapped at Play.

After traffic had been blocked for several minutes and some 200 persons had gathered, an engine company of the Fire Department was called into action shortly after 9 a. m. today to liberate 2-year-old Nona Saitta, whose left foot had become fastened in a water shut-off box in front of her home, 3007 Montgomery street.

The child was playing with other children in the street when she thrust her foot into the metal box, embedded in the pavement, "to see if it would fit." She was unable to withdraw it and the children summoned neighbors and passersby. When their attempts to extricate her were ineffectual, firemen dug around the box with shovels, broke off the water pipe below and lifted out a section of water pipe. Then they broke the box with hammers. Nona emerged from her adventure uninjured.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Congressman Tinkham (Rep.), Massachusetts, said today he would demand that the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee call Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for an investigation into his prohibition activities.

Bishop Cannon, chairman of the Southern Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, left Washington today for Durham, N. C.

DRY RAIDS IN VERA CRUZ

Great Quantities of Wine Dumped Into the Gutters.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, April, 12.—A dispatch from Vera Cruz says the gutters ran with wine after police raided saloons and other liquor stores on charges of violating the State alcohol law, and dumped great quantities of wine into the streets.

The State of Vera Cruz recently passed a law imposing a heavy tax on wines in support of the Federal Government's efforts to rid Mexico of liquor.

NAVAL PACT DRAFT TO BE READY BY MIDNIGHT

Experts' Reports on Which the Treaty Is Based Are Expected to Be Approved at Monday's Plenary Session.

SEVERAL POINTS TO BE CLEARED UP

Safeguarding Clauses Likely to Bring Up Again Troublesome Demand of Italy for Parity With France.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 12.—The first draft of the London naval agreement was being prepared today with a view to its submission to the five delegations before midnight.

Progress was made by the drafting and expert committees this morning, and it was indicated at St. James's Palace that it would be possible to conclude a rough draft for consideration by the various delegates over the week-end.

Several points of difference are yet to be cleared up, including the so-called safeguarding clauses to protect the navies limited under the treaty, in the event that neighboring nations whose navies are unlimited should begin what might be regarded as excessive building.

While only the experts' reports, not yet approved by the conference, are being used as a basis for the pact, there is no doubt on the part of the drafting committee that these reports will be approved at Monday's session and the work can proceed over the week-end on the assumption that it will be approved by the plenary session Monday. Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow is serving as chairman of the drafting committee.

Where the Difficulty Lies.

With the exception of a provisional clause which will allow Great Britain, America and Japan, signers of the three-Power pact, to increase their navies beyond the treaty figures if endangered by the building programs of the non-signatory nations, France and Italy, the agreement is not expected to offer serious obstacles.

The section of the treaty, however, dealing with all five Powers represented at the conference, may be made difficult. Although involving much less than the three-Power limitation agreement, the conflicting national viewpoints of Italy and France are expected generally to clash somewhat, possibly causing some delay. Both nations are reported to be seeking certain reservations hitherto unconsidered.

According to those close to the French delegation, Briand, French Foreign Minister, in signing that part of the treaty relative to a battleship holiday, will reserve the right to build 70,000 tons of capital ships which were granted France under the Washington treaty and which thus far have not been built.

Parity Issue Still Pressed.

Italy was said to wish to make a similar reservation with regard to 85,000 tons of capital ships, thus continuing the demand for parity with France. Some naval experts, in commenting on these projected reservations, said that since the war Italy had built ship for ship with France, and that there was no certainty she eventually would not build up to equality with her Northern neighbor.

Morrow's insistence that his counsel, George Rublee, sit with him in the committee room is said to have led each of the other members of the committee to bring counsel with them, increasing the number sitting in the committee deliberations from five to ten.

Both Secretary of State Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald probably will rest over the week-end, leaving the treaty drafting to subordinates.

Press Accepts Situation.

The attitude of today's press was one of cheerfully accepting what had been hoped would be more, and of welcome for the substantial gains toward naval disarmament.

The Times said: "Though oppressed, as were the delegates to the Washington conference, by a sense of partial failure the London delegates have every reason to be satisfied with what actually was accomplished."

The Herald, labor organ, said: "It would be folly to overvalue the gains. The conference neither

BOMBAY STATION AND MILK TRAIN ARE DYNAMITED

Two Persons Hurt in Waiting Room.—Mohammedan Found Lying With Injured Arm Is Arrested.

10,000 STUDENTS IN DEMONSTRATION

Police Charge Calcutta Crowd and Several Militia Officers Are Held—More Salt Law Violations.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, India, April 12.—Two bombs were exploded here this morning, one in the third-class waiting room at Byculla Station, injuring two persons, and the other in the suburban milk train near Musjid, just outside the city.

The bombs were of the crudest type, although the one at Byculla shook the neighborhood. Haji Sirajuddin, a Mohammedan, was arrested. He was found lying with an injured arm. Authorities express opinion the bombs were intended for use in connection with the railroad strike,

One thousand Nationalist volunteers, distributed throughout the city, made salt today in continuance of the campaign of civil disobedience.

The headquarters of the India National Congress issued a manifesto calling upon the people to observe complete nonviolence, particularly during the great procession planned for tomorrow, the concluding day of national week. The day's activities will culminate in a mass meeting on the seashore, where everybody is invited to take pans to be used in carrying home sea water for illegal manufacture of salt.

Other violations were reported from widely scattered points in India, and were attended with an increasing number of arrests, injuries and severe sentences.

Despite efforts by the Government, the nonviolent resistance movement appears to be making headway, particularly in Bengal, where Mahatma Gandhi himself has not personally campaigned.

The college students of Calcutta have come out enthusiastically for the Nationalist cause. Ten thousand of the students demonstrated last evening in College Square, Calcutta. Many arrests were made, including some officers of the militia. At one time the crowd became so unruly that the police charged, swinging their clubs. Several persons were injured.

Gandhi Again Asks Followers to Refrain From Violence.

By the Associated Press.

SURAT, India, April 12.—Mahatma Gandhi today again made a plea to his followers that they remain nonviolent in their campaign for India's independence. He addressed a meeting at Pinjrat attended by many men and women who sat in a dry creek under a blazing sun.

Standing on a cart, the Mahatma declared that they must "pass through the heat of misery" if they wanted to attain independence.

He said the Government was moving slowly because the Indian people were sane and wise but if they turned mad and abused the Government and threw stones at its representatives, the Government would march quickly and take 1000 lives for every life lost.

"Let the police do what they like," he urged, "we should remain nonviolent."

NEW YORK MOVE FOR DRY AMENDMENT REPEAL DIES

Bill Petitioning Congress to Convoke Constitutional Convention Held in Committee of Whole.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, April 12.—The Cuvillier bill petitioning Congress to convoke a constitutional convention to consider repeal of the eighteenth amendment died in the Senate Committee of the Whole when the Legislature adjourned early today blocked from a vote by the parliamentary tactics of Senator John Knight, Republican leader of the chamber, and Senator Thomas C. Brown, co-sponsor of the Jenks statewide enforcement bill.

The Assembly passed the measure yesterday afternoon by 80 to 62. The bill died on order of third reading in the Senate in the final hour of the session.

Republican Senators from wet districts have been left on record as dry because they voted against the state control wine and beer bill.

Auto Salesman Apparently the Victim of Gangsters.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 12.—The body of a middle-aged, well-dressed man, pierced over the heart by the charge from a shotgun, was found on the sidewalk on the west side of the city last night. Nearby stood a roadster from which the body, police say, probably was tossed.

The man was another gang victim, in the opinion of police. Cards in his pockets indicated he was an achieved disarmament nor assured peace and the peoples looked to their statesmen for far more."

Some of U. S. Delegation Depart.

Part of the American naval delegation departed for home today, traveling by boat train from Waterloo station to board the George Washington at Southampton.

The party included Admiral Moffatt, Admiral and Mrs. Pringle, D. W. Bergman, Mrs. Yarnell and Mrs. W. H. Hopkins Beck, Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, speaking last night, insisted that the conference had achieved great results. He predicted the summoning by the League of Nations of a world disarmament conference to complete them.

"A naval holiday has been agreed to, because we hope between now and 1936 we may investigate afresh the whole question of naval policy, in the hope that the nations may come to a common agreement that monster vessels are no longer needed," he said.

"I regard the decision for a battleship holiday as of great importance. Not only has definite limitation been decided upon, but technical difficulties which hitherto stood in the way of progress have been done away with.

"It will be agreed that what the conference has done means a great new start for the work of disarmament. I think it is fair to say that we are now within measureable distance of a world disarmament conference which it is the duty of the League of Nations to summon and carry through.

"If this is true I believe it will be agreed that although all our hopes have not been realized we can look with genuine satisfaction on what the naval conference has achieved."

U. S.-CANADIAN ARRANGEMENT FOR AIRPLANE RADIO SERVICE

Plan Worked Out Whereby Both Will Have Full Use of Service.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—A two-day conference between radio officials representing the Governments of the United States and Canada ended yesterday with a decision to recommend to the two Governments a plan for interlocking their systems of radio communication for aircraft so that planes flying between the two countries may have full use of the proposed systems.

Dr. C. C. Jolliffee, chief engineer of the Federal Radio Commission, announced the results of the conference at the end of the two-day session behind closed doors.

"This conference," Dr. Jolliffee said, "disclosed that the Canadian Government is planning to install radio range beacons along the Canadian Transcontinental Airways. These beacons will use frequencies in the bands of frequencies reserved for such use. The United States now uses frequencies in the same band for the same type of service on the United States airways and recommendation will be made where the two Governments will be able to operate and interlock their respective systems with-

CHICAGO, April 12.—Three Chicago moving picture theaters, one in the Loop, have advised the Chicago League of the Hard of Hearing that they will install equipment that will enable the 300,000 deaf people in the Chicago area to hear the talkies talk.

A campaign was started last year among the deaf, calling upon public places to install electrical hearing aids. Several churches already have made such equipment available.

Chicago Artist-Flyer Missing.

Joseph Callahan, 12, Victim of Accident at 1929 Forest Avenue.

Joseph Callahan, 12 years old, 6923 Garner avenue, was accidentally shot and killed at 11:30 a. m. today by Arthur B. Ecoff, 13, when they were playing with a revolver belonging to Arthur's father, Francis A. Ecoff, in his home at 1929 Forest avenue.

Police reported the boys had taken Ecoff's 32-caliber revolver from his bedroom and removed three of four cartridges, the fourth apparently sticking. They were snapping the revolver, flipping the loaded chamber past the barrel whenever it came into line.

It seemed, police related, that Arthur once overlooked that the loaded chamber was in firing position. The cartridge was discharged and Joseph fell with a bullet through the heart. Arthur ran from the house and summoned neighbors.

which were embodied in a statement which he signed. He was then lodged in the holdover at Police Headquarters, and a warrant charging him with the specific embezzlement of a Globe-Democrat check for $825.46 was issued.

Chalmers refused to discuss his gambling or other activities with police or reporters. He did tell police that he was a nephew of William Young, former Police Chief and Police Commissioner, who died in 1925.

The checks embezzled by Chalmers were in a form prescribed by Chalmers and were made payable to the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad Co., O. D. Chalmers, manager of mail and express traffic, and J. W. Nourse, passenger traffic manager. Chalmers made the indorsement of the railroad company with a rubber stamp, forged Nourse's name, signed his own name and deposited the checks to his own account.

Because of the haste with which bundles of newspapers sometimes must be handled, it is not practicable to make out waybills for them, as is done with express matter. Instead, the newspapers keep account of the weight of their bundles, and make monthly remittances to the railroad company.

Chalmers was released shortly before noon today on $40,000 bond. He made no statement as he left Police Headquarters.

Chalmers is 38 years old and resides at 4530A Shenandoah avenue with his wife and daughter, the latter a student at Mary Institute, according to neighbors.

Mrs. Chalmers said she was unaware of her husband's peculations, but refused to discuss his visits to gambling houses, which presumably were made at night after office hours.

Chalmers' salary was $300 a month. He was not under surety bond.

MOVE IN HOUSE TO BLOCK SHOALS PLAN OF NORRIS

Member of Military Committee Offers Bill to Give President Power to Lease Plant.

THIS MAY PREVENT ANY LEGISLATION

Senate Unlikely to Accept Substitute for Government Operation Which It Approved by Big Vote.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Evidences of a plan in the House to block adoption of the Norris resolution, providing for Government operation of the Government plant at Muscle Shoals, came to light yesterday when the House Military Affairs Committee began consideration of the measure passed last week by the Senate.

Congressman Douglas (Dem.), Arizona, a member of the committee, introduced a bill that would give the President full authority to lease the plant to private interests, and there are strong indications that the Old Guard in the House is prepared to throw its support to this or a similar proposal.

May Prevent Action.

A counter move of this character might be designed to prevent any action at this session of Congress. President Hoover is generally thought to be opposed to the Norris plan, but it is realized that it would be embarrassing for him to veto it, in view of the disclosures before the Senate Lobby Committee of Claudius Huston's lobbying activities for the American Cyanamid and Union Carbide Companies. The attitude of the House leaders is regarded in some quarters as an effort to save the President from the necessity of passing on the measure.

The Norris plan has no outstanding champion in the House, although the sentiment of that body is recognized as distinctly favorable to it. The course of Congressman John Morin of Pennsylvania, in championing the bill in the last Congres, aroused the hostility of the Mellon family, and resulted in Morin's retirement from Congress.

The Senate Lobby Committee's disclosures of the methods employed to obtain acceptance of the Cyanamid-Carbide bid obviously have made it impossible to turn the plant over to them at this time. Republican leaders, however, are credited with a belief that if action could be delayed at this session, public forgetfulness might permit them to execute a lease later, perhaps next year.

What Bill Provides.

The Douglas bill would empower the President, some time prior to Jan. 1, 1932, to lease the property to electro-chemical interests. It would permit the lessee to make a net profit of 8 per cent on the appraised value of the property and improvements. It contains a clause providing for the recapture of the plant by the Government in the event of war.

That the Senate would accept such a substitute is inconceivable, in view of the overwhelming majority by which it voted for Government operation. But a deadlock would serve the purpose of those who are opposed to the Norris plan.

MO.-PAC. TIED UP BY WRECK

Main Line Blocked Seven Hours by Derailed Freight Cars.

The main line of the Missouri Pacific Railroad was blocked at Barrett's Station, west of Kirkwood, from 8:28 o'clock last night until 4 o'clock this morning by the wreck of a westbound freight train. Twelve loaded cars of company coal and a car loaded with ties were derailed. Until the track was cleared trains were rerouted over the Frisco Railway to Pacific.

A bolt in a truck of one of the coal cars sheared off as the train was crossing Barrett's Station road, permitting a bar to drop, causing the derailment. The crash shook houses half a mile away. The single track was torn up for several hundred feet and a rail pierced the steel side of one coal car. No one was hurt.

Catahoula authorities said they had suspected the lumber camp area as a source of moonshine whisky. A search in the neighborhood of Grogan's tent, they reported, disclosed more than 50 bottles of beer.

Grogan was removed to Jena, in LaSalle Parish, officers said, because of high feeling. He was ordered held for grand jury action after a Coroner's inquest.

SURVEY BODY BEGINS DRAFTING REPORT ON CITY TRANSIT NEEDS

Commission Holds First Executive Session at Bellerive Country Club.

The Transportation Survey Commission last night held the first of the executive sessions at which it will draft the report to be presented to the Board of Aldermen. The meeting was at Bellerive Country Club, where the members were guests of Chairman E. J. Russell at dinner.

The commission had before it a summary of the reports it has received from its consulting engineer, R. F. Kelker Jr., Chicago, and from its various committees. These reports were discussed but no final action was taken. Other executive meetings are to be held.

The commission was created by the Board of Aldermen in June, 1928, to make a thorough study of the transportation needs of St. Louis, particularly with reference to rapid transit. Its life was limited to two years and $50,000 was appropriated for its expenses. It is expected to recommend to the Board of Aldermen a public transportation policy and probably the creation of an official rapid transit commission as is authorized by a law which this commission succeeded in having enacted by the Legislature last year.

SPRINGFIELD, (MO.,) MAYOR INDICTED FOR LIQUOR GRAFT

T. H. Gideon and Deputy Sheriff Witherspoon Charged With Selling Protection—Five Alleged Bootleggers Also Accused.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 12.—An indictment was returned by the Federal grand jury today against Mayor Thomas H. Gideon and six others on charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition law. The specific charge was that he and Deputy Sheriff Lee Witherspoon, also named in the true bill, received payments from bootleggers to allow them to sell liquor without police interference.

The four others named in the indictment are alleged to be either manufacturers of moonshine whisky or bootleggers. They are: Ralph Thomas, Bruce Stokes, Tom Fuzzell, Carl George and William Bailey.

The indictment included 87 counts, ranging from charges of accepting protection money to one that the Mayor had received a gift of whisky from Cecil Foster, bootlegger. Foster turned State's evidence and it was largely on his testimony that the grand jury returned the indictment.

None of those named in the true bill has been arrested.

HARVARD CYCLISTS REACH NEW YORK IN 33 HOURS

And Their Backers Up in Boston Profit Financially Thereby.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Three Harvard undergraduates revived memories of the brave days of old and incidentally won considerable money for their backers up in Cambridge, when they pedalled into New York yesterday from Boston on bicycles, having made the trip in an elapsed time of slightly under 33 hours. Their actual time on the road was 24 hours and 20 minutes. They arrived in front of 773 Park avenue, the home of Austin T. Gray, '30, one of the cyclists, at 2:15 p. m. The other two youths were John S. Ames, '32, North Easton, Mass., and Kenneth G. Pender, '30, Sioux Falls, S. D.

The wager was that the three could not get from Boston to New York on bicycles in less than 48 hours. Pools of $500 had been bet on each man at the A. D. Club, which sponsored the affair, and it is reported that there were laid all kinds of fanciful side bets in addition.

The three students trained vigorously for the affair under the direction of "Nappie" Williams, a veteran Negro trainer at Cambridge, who accompanied them along the route in an automobile and looked out for such contingencies as sore muscles and flat tires. The party spent the night at New Haven.

URGES INQUIRY INTO NATIONAL WAR PREVENTION COUNCIL

Britten Asks Lobby Committee to Investigate Activities of Frederick J. Libby.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Investigation by the Senate Lobby Committee of Frederick J. Libby and the National Council for the Prevention of War was urged yesterday by Chairman Britten of the House Naval Affairs Committee. Britten charged Libby had issued "a secret call for the bombardment of the White House on April 12 by the pacifist groups of the country with a view to influencing the action of the London naval conference."

Along with his formal statement, the Illinois member made public a letter which he said had been sent out by Libby to college presidents and members of the National Council asking them to urge the President to use his influence for further naval reduction. The letter urged support of a proposal to reduce the United States Navy to 10 battleships if the British Empire would also reduce to 10 battleships and Japan to six. Acceptance of the proposal to curtail total aircraft carrier tonnage and extension of the life of ships in each category to further postpone the date of replacement also were advocated in the letter.

"I hope the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee will give its attention to the activities of Libby and his National Council for the Prevention of War," Britten said, "and all other Communist organizations which threaten the very foundations of the Government."

Johnson s explained that Dr. Bass had ntroduced Pearman to him as Fol- in arranging a land deal in hich "Folta" was to take out in- urance and assign it to the dentist collateral.

Needed a Realty Broker.

According to Attorney Moore, ss explained orally that "in the n it was necessary to have a real state broker and I knew Johnson nd got in touch with him for that purpose alone. I at first consid- ered using either of two other prominent real estate operators in Kansas City."

Satisfied that Dr. Bass knows all about the actual murder of Pear- man even if he did not take part n it, investigators are endeavor- ing to trace his movements during the days which preceded the find- ing of the body. "I believe that Pearman was killed elsewhere, moved here in an automobile and thrown out," said Sheriff Fields. "Dr. Bass left his home in Colum- bia before breakfast the morning of March 27 and did not return until midnight. I believe he was present or near by when Pearman as killed."

Silent About Movements.

r. Bass, however, has remained adamant in refusing to discuss his movements at that time. In his confession, he told in detail that he hired St. Louis gunmen in 1928 to kill his wife's cousin, Machier J. Dorsey, an insurance company executive of Indianapolis, for $100,- 000 insurance, and found himself at the mercy of the gunmen when the plot failed because Dorsey can- led the insurance.

The dentist's amazing story was that he had promised the killer $8000 and that the gunman and his associates insisted on payment until he handed over $4000 in cash at a meeting at the Washington Hotel in St. Louis. The gunmen, he said, continued their threats and demands until he agreed to attempt another insurance fraud with the intention of substituting a body for that of the insured.

Induced Pearman to Pose as Folta.

Under this pressure, the confes- sion related, Dr. Bass persuaded Pearman, a 47-year-old automobile mechanic of Columbia, to wear a youthful wig and pose as William Folta, a man who disappeared from Martinsburg, Mo., 17 years ago. Using the real Folta's personal family history and present age, 37, Pearman obtained the insurance, epresenting that he had returned m the Orient and become a land broker.

Dr. Bass used his friends and as- ociates in his plot. He arranged or the fake land deal through ohnson in Kansas City and pre- ailed on him to identify "Folta" hen he was killed. He intro-vice president of the First National Bank in St. Louis, and T. H. Wiseman, president of a co-operative company in the Central National Bank Building, according to his confession, in order that "Folta" might use their names as references in obtaining the insurance. He gave "Folta" a home address, 4228 McPherson avenue, St. Louis, where Walton F. Barron, formerly of Columbia and associated with the dentist in a poolroom business venture, resided at the time.

The dentist's confession, sketchy on many points concerning Pearman, indicated that he had planned with the gunmen that a body would be substituted for that of the insured in order to complete the fraud. When Pearman was killed, Dr. Bass declared, he identified him as Folta "because to do otherwise would have been to sign my own death warrant."

Names Three Gunmen.

In his confession, Dr. Bass named three gunmen and described several conferences at St. Louis hotels. He related that at one time, while the gunmen were demanding the $6000 murder fee, he "told his troubles" to the Rev. Carl Agee, pastor of the Christian Church of Columbia, of which Dr. Bass is a deacon, and persuaded the Rev. Mr. Agee to accompany him to St. Louis when he made the $4000 payment.

After signing the confession, Dr. Bass appeared more composed and relieved than he had been at any time since his arrest. In his cell, he gave way to tears at almost every expression of sympathy and broke down completely when the correspondent gave him a box of cigars.

He is friendly to everyone and profuse in expressing appreciation of kindness shown him in the jail.

TELLS OF DEMAND MADE BY GUNMEN

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 12.—The story told by P. T. King, Assistant Chief of Police here last Tuesday, supports in part the statements of Dr. Bass that he was harassed and threatened by gunmen who compelled him to go to St. Louis to discuss their demands for money.

King related that he accompanied Dr. Bass to St. Louis in April, 1929, and was present with a private detective and Walton Barron in a West End drug store when the dentist talked with gangsters who, King understood, had demanded $8000.

The conference broke up without results, King said, because of the presence of himself and the detective, and he never learned the basis of the demand beyond a remark by Dr. Bass that he had been "threatened over a land deal in the South."

Barron, then employed as a Terminal fireman and living in St. Louis, later became a salesman for W. H. Young & Bro., defunct St. Louis brokerage house, and is now at his home here, unemployed. Asked about Dr. Bass' confession, he declined to add anything to his previous brief statements. He has stated that Dr. Bass used his address for "Folta" against his will and that King "hasn't got the facts quite right." His only business dealings with Dr. Bass, he has said, were in connection with a poolroom here, Dr. Bass having indorsed his note for $13,500 so he could buy into the business.

The Rev. Mr. Agee, who has expressed the opinion held by many Columbia acquaintances of Dr. Bass that he is insane, still declines to disclose the nature of the dentist's confidences. He said Bass had not told all of his "troubles" and that he would not talk until tht dentist told everything or released him from his responsibility as spiritual adviser.

Asked about the conference with gunmen in St. Louis, which Dr. Bass said he attended, the Rev. Mr. Agee said he recalled accompanying the dentist to St. Louis on but one occasion which involved a legitimate business deal.

19 U. S. ARMY PLANES GO UP 30,000 FEET, NEW RECORD

Break World Altitude Mark for Combat Formation Flying at Sacramento, Cal.

By the Associated Press.

MATHER FIELD, Sacramento, Cal., April 12.—The United States Army Air Corps set a new world's record for altitude combat formation flying today when 19 planes of the 95th Pursuit Squadron reached a height estimated at 30,000 feet. The previous record was 17,000 feet.

The 19 pursuit ships were in the air two hours, landing at 11 a. m., after attaining, while flying in formation, an altitude greater than any gained for that type of plane heretofore, army officers said.

The squadron was led by Capt. H. M. Elmendorf, who reported that his altimeter read 33,000 feet. The altimeters of the other ships varied from 26,000 to 40,000 feet.

Unofficial estimates of army officials were that the planes easily attained the height of 30,000 feet.

Interesting experiences in subzero temperature and rare atmosphere were recited by the pilots. Capt. Elmendorf told his superior officers that when he reached the 33,000-foot level, the tube leading from the oxygen tank supplying him with air slipped from his mouth and he was forced to dive four miles to keep from "passing out."

WALLY VERNON SAYS HE CAN'T PAY HIS DEBTS ON $225 A WEEK

Declares Idleness During Musicians' Strike Aggravated Financial Difficulties.

Wally Vernon, master of ceremonies at the Granada Theater, 4533 Gravois avenue, testified in Bankruptcy Court yesterday that he filed bankruptcy proceedings last month because his salary of $225 a week was insufficient to pay his debts. Idleness for 14 weeks during the recent musicians' strike aggravated his troubles, he explained.

His difficulties, it developed, were chiefly in meeting alimony payments of $50 a week and installments on a $2950 automobile. The automobile has been seized by a finance company for non-payment of the installments.

His debts are listed at $2274, including $133 owed restaurants and a night club, and his assets at $450, consisting of household goods and

SURVIVORS SAY BUS DRIVER DIDN'T STOP AT CROSSING

Efforts Being Made to Complete Identification of 19 Dead — 10 Others Hurt in Wreck.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY DIRECTS INQUIRY

Engineer of Santa Fe Train Declares He Saw Pickwick Coach, but Couldn't Stop in Time.

By the Associated Press.

ISLETA, N. M., April 12.—Efforts are being made today to complete identification of the persons killed yesterday when a Santa Fe fast mail train struck a Pickwick Greyhound bus here. Several of the bodies were so badly mangled that some uncertainty exists regarding the names of 12 of the dead.

Ten other passengers aboard the bus, bound from Los Angeles to Denver, were injured. Bits of wreckage and bodies were strewn for 200 yards by the train.

After the collision blazing gasoline burned the clothing from some of the bodies and consumed inflammable parts of the wrecked bus. In many cases identity of the victims had to be learned from letters and their effects and baggage.

Inquest Set for Monday.

District Attorney Lujan announced an inquest would be held at 10 a. m. Monday in Albuquerque. Attaches of his office interviewed the ten survivors and summoned witnesses for the inquiry. Officers of the Santa Fe Railroad, members of the Pickwick Greyhound Co. and members of the train crew are to be called.

Of the 29 persons in the bus when the crash occurred not one escaped death or injury. Nine of the injured are in hospitals. One was able to go to a hotel after treatment.

Homer Stein of San Francisco and Conrad Heubers of Los Angeles, passengers in the bus, said the driver of the bus, F. D. Williams, who was killed, failed to stop at the grade crossing and merely slowed down.

The engineer of the train saw the collision was inevitable, he said, and put on his brakes at once, but even then the train ran half a mile before it was brought to a stop.

List of the Dead.

The known dead:

Mrs. Ellis Huff, Los Angeles.

Kenneth Huff, 8 years old, her son, Los Angeles.

Corporal Roland Anderson, Merrill, Ia.

F. D. Williams, bus driver, Albuquerque.

Potacio Torelto, Indian, Santo Domingo, N. M.

R. C. Stevens, Kankakee, Ill.

William Mickle, Santa Monica, Cal.

Those identified from personal letters and effects:

Miss Cartula M. Maurer, Huntington Park, Cal.

Miss Henrietta Robbins, Ramsey, N. J.

Richard Childers, Artesia, Cal.

Thelma Luft, Denver, Colo. or Los Angeles.

Mrs. Mona Utter, Marvin, Mo.

T. F. Feeley, Hollywood, Cal.

C. E. Mallory, address unknown.

Alice Stanglan, Los Angeles.

Orla Barber, address unknown.

Two unidentified babies.

One unidentified Indian.

"It was a terrible scene," said C. W. Atwater of Albuquerque, who was one of the first persons to reach the wreck. "Bodies were strewn everywhere. Some were decapitated, some were armless and legless, and the clothing had been burned from most of the bodies."

WASHINGTON, April 12. — An increase in air mail during March of 70,152 pounds over February was announced today by Postmaster-General Brown.

FIGHTS TO REGAIN BABY SON ADOPTED IN ANOTHER HOME

Mrs. Mildred Harris Scott Tells Court of 3-Year Search for Infant Left at Bethesda Institution.

To a small gathering of 25 persons, including Circuit Judge Rosskopf in Juvenile Court, Mrs. Mildred Harris Scott, 1243 Amherst avenue, yesterday described the three-year search which she had made for her infant son, and how she found him under the name of Donald Stobaugh, the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stobaugh, Decatur, Ill. After hearing evidence on her motion to set aside the adoption, Judge Rosskopf continued the case until next Friday, in order to permit depositions of the foster-parents to be placed in evidence.

Neither Mr. and Mrs. Stobaugh, who were represented by a Decatur attorney, or the boy were at the hearing. Judge Rosskopf told counsel for Mrs. Scott, as well as attorneys for Bethesda Maternity Home, 3561 Vista avenue, which supervised the child's adoption, that he would have several legal questions to solve before rendering a decision.

The first question is of jurisdiction, whether the motion is the proper method to recover the child, the second whether there was fraud in the actual adoption as Mrs. Scott contends, and if Mrs. Scott, 18 years old at the time adoption papers were signed, was legally competent.

Born at Salvation Army Home.

Mrs. Scott, who was unmarried when the child was born at a Salvation Army home here Jan. 3, 1927, told the court she had taken the child to Bethesda Home under the impression it would be boarded there for two or three months and that she would have an opportunity to regain it within that period.

"I returned to my home in Little Rock, Ark., on Jan. 17, 1927," Mrs. Scott told the court, "after giving the Bethesda Home $52 to take care of my baby. Before I left I signed adoption papers, but I was told by Mrs. Johanna Schroeder at the home that I might have the child if I called in three months.

"On April 6 of that year, I came back to St. Louis with a friend of mine, and asked for the baby at the home. I was told that I couldn't have him, that some people had taken him just a few hours before I arrived. I returned to Little Rock to figure out a way to get him.

"I employed a woman detective to work on the case but she could find out nothing. In September, 1928, I was married and since then have spent about $500 in trying to get some clew. Part of the money has been furnished by my husband, but most of it by the father of the child. Not until we came to St. Louis in January, 1930, and I employed a detective here, did I find where the boy was."

"Wanted to Forget Child."

On cross-examination by counsel for Jesse L. Smith, chief probation officer of Juvenile Court, who carried through the adoption on July 8, 1927, Mrs. Scott admitted tearfully that a conversation with Smith in January, 1927, in which she told him she "had never been in trouble before," and that she wanted to "leave the child for adoption and forget it."

Mrs. Schroeder testified Mrs. Scott and an uncle had taken the baby to the home for adoption, and that out of special generosity she had told the mother the child would not be legally adopted for three months. A letter she received from Mrs. Scott two months after the baby was left at the home was introduced, and Mrs. Scott's statement in it that the baby might be adopted if a good home was found was read to the Court.

Testimony by a private detective employed by Mrs. Scott that the Stobaughs admitted taking the child for adoption under the fear that its mother was seeking it was disputed by Carl N. Wellepp, Decatur, counsel for the Stobaughs, who obtained permission of the Court to take their depositions.

Oil Man's Own Account Of Capture for Ransom And Stay With Outlaws

Doesn't Regard Men Who Held Him for 30 Days as Real Bandits, But Starving Fellows Who Don't Know What to Do—Says He Was Well Treated.

This is the first of a series of articles on the experiences of J. E. Bristow, 60-year-old San Angelo, Texas, oil and mine operator, who was held for 30 days for ransom in Mexico, as told by Bristow to Merle Blakely of the Oklahoma City Times. Blakely accompanied Bristow's son, Obie Bristow, and another American, when they went into Mexico to pay the ransom.

TEPIC, Nayarit, Mexico, April 11.—The joke, if there is one, is on Senor Cruz Delgado, my host in the wilderness of Nayarit for 30 days. This stubble-bearded chief of a mountain band had the idea that the American Consul at Mazatlan had a million gold pesos in the bank for my delivery. Then, after a month, Senor Delgado gave me my freedom in payment for 3000 pesos.

That isn't all. When he finally agreed on 3000 pesos, which only amounts to about $1500, the ransom messengers had 22,000 pesos in their pockets, ready to give him if they had to.

I referred to Senor Delgado as my host. He was, but I was footing the bills—a paying guest. In addition to the $1500 my son, Obie, paid in ransom money, my visit with the outlaws cost $200 in supplies, a good pair of boots, and an odd 30 pesos I had left in my pockets after buying food.

The privilege of saying goodby was worth every cent of it and more. Those 30 days make this little, drab shed of a Tepic hotel look like a palace. In the states a mattress like this would mean a bawling out for the manager, but after four weeks of sleeping on volcanic rock, with nothing in between but a blanket and nothing overhead but the sky, this seems like thistledown.

"Starving, Half-Naked Fellows."

Personally the outlaws weren't so bad. Obie and Eaton, the American Consul, and Blakely, give me the horse laugh when I say that. But I can't help but believe it. They kidnaped me, robbed me, starved me, threatened to kill me, and led me a dog's life in general, but they weren't such a bad lot.

I don't conisder them real bandits. They are just starving, half-naked fellows who are poor and don't know what to do. They are part of the people known as Cristeros, a sect ruled out of their church years ago. Practically all of the peons in the Nayarit wilderness, although not outlaws, sympathize with Delgado.

Considering everything, they treated me pretty well. It's true I went for five days eating nothing but dough and drinking nothing but foul-tasting mountain water, hard as the rocks it spouted from. But Delgado and his men were living on the same fare. All through the ordeal we shared the same food, and the rocks they slept on were not softer than mine. My clothes, rough as they were, probably were a little better.

It was more than a year ago that I first got the bug for coming to Mexico. From what I had heard and read in San Angelo I thought there was a chance for extensive developments in mining properties.

Last January I made my first trip to Tepic, just to look over the country and study the prospects. They told me there were lots of mines around here, but hardly any of them were working because you couldn't get the ore to market after digging it out. The ones that were being operated weren't paying.

The people in Tepic told me I was getting into bandit country, so I have only myself to blame for the jam. It wasn't anyone else's fault. This section of Mexico is inhabited by men who have made their bread and butter by thievery and violence for 100 years.

J. E. BRISTOW.

After I had been in Tepic a few days I talked with an old man who had been a bandit in his more active days. When I met him he was a surveyor and knew every inch of the outlaw territory. He had the reputation of being reliable.

He told me he had been living near an undeveloped mine in the Caracol Mountains about 30 miles from Tepic. The mine had been located about 60 years ago by a bandit leader who was killed by his own men after he had tunneled into the mountain. What I wanted to do was to investigate the tunnel for gold, silver, zinc or any other ores.

I hired two peon natives but on this first trip I kept my plans secret. I hate to tell what I paid for the mine. It was dirt cheap. I promised the old man $3 a day for every day the mine was worked. He snapped it up in a minute.

I thought my biggest job was in rounding up an escort I could trust. I couldn't speak Spanish and my worst need was an interpreter. Finally I met Charlie Fields.

Fields is about 60 years old, born in Louisiana. He has been in Mexico 36 years, making a livelihood as a salesman. He has become a naturalized Mexican. I hired him a few days before departure and later tried to shake him off, but he stuck like a leech. There wasn't another person in Tepic who could speak both languages, so I had to keep him.

Made Treaty with Cristeros.

The mountain country we headed into is infested with Cristeros, belonging to a wing of the Catholic Church which was exiled by Government order. All of them are poor and they have taken up kidnaping and banditry to make their living. I decided to find someone who could represent those people and then offer a treaty. This was done. I was promised immunity and in return I promised to open the mine, offer employment and raise living standards.

It turned out that one group of Cristeros can promise you anything and stick to it, but you haven't any idea what the other bunch will do.

Travel was slow. We spent the night at Santa Maria. It might have been in Santa Maria that the kidnap deal was hatched up. In front of the Santa Maria del Oro Hotel I saw the outlaw leader, Cruz Delgado. He is a tall, ungainly looking fellow with a funny face, funny mustache and two teeth out in front. Later I came to know him well.

On the third day out we reached the mine, in just about the wildest country in Mexico. Not very many people have ever been in that section. You never would know there is a mine there. The tunnel looks just like a cave in the side of the mountain. It wasn't worked by its original owners. They say there is a rich vein of gold in there. What I wanted to do on this second expedition was to go in with my surveyors and make checks on the rock. I also planned to put up monuments around the mine so I could prove my claim.

I picked up six more men on the last day out, just to build the monuments. They were native peons and all right. We had with us some dynamite and powder which I wanted to use in making tests of the rock. We unloaded our stuff, put the donkeys in a small canyon, prepared our grub and lay down for a night's rest.

BOY KILLED, GIRL AND TEACHER HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Machine Carrying Green Summit (Ill.) School Basket Ball Team Crowded Off Road and Struck.

A boy was killed, a teacher and a girl pupil seriously injured and five persons slightly injured eight miles north of Jerseyville, Ill., last night when an automobile in which the basketball team of Green Summit School was returning from a game with Centerville School was crowded off the Illinois Highway No. 3 and struck by an automobile driven by T. H. Elliot of Kansas City.

Witnesses said Elliot had been driving erratically. Lawrence Seago, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Seago, residing near Kane, Ill., was killed. Miss Violet Vickmore, the teacher, who was driving, was taken to a hospital in Jerseyville in a serious condition, with a severe scalp wound, internal injuries and a possible skull fracture, and Miss Bernadine Milner, 17, seriously injured, was taken to her home at Green Summit.

The four other members of the basketball team were cut and bruised, and Elliot, who was arrested, suffered rib fractures.

Italy and the London Conference.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN your editorial, "The French Demands," you say that "it is the Fascist regime that has forced the hand of France at London." I agree that Fascism has given the Italian nation a much greater sense of its national and international duties and responsibilities; but permit me to disagree with the rest. Italy went to London with a view, not of limiting but actually reducing the naval tonnage to any level, no matter how low. France instead went to London with a new program of naval constructions, which never had been so high. The attempt to accuse Italy of menacing the integrity of the French Colonial Empire is nonsense; such things have to be proved; because parity between the United States and Great Britain would appear as a menace to the British Colonial Empire. Parity with France is fundamental to Italy, a country deficient in the most essential raw materials and set in an inland sea whose accesses (Gibraltar and Suez Canal) may easily be closed; in this case the real existence of a people of 42,000,000 would be menaced.

The particular condition of Italy explains her necessity of keeping a navy not exceeded by any European continental Power; you have to take into consideration this particular geographical and economic position of Italy if you wish to understand the real and pacific sense of the Italian policy.

Pleads for Silent Movies.

Would Parole Deserving Prisoners.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

JUST finished reading your editorial, "Missouri's Prison Disgrace." Every time I read anything about the overcrowding I think how much that could be relieved by paroling the men who richly deserve paroles.

There is one man at least, and I have no doubt there are others, who has furnished the Commissioner of Paroles with proof, in the form of sworn affidavits, that he is absolutely innocent. This proof has been before the Prison Board for a year now, and still they do nothing. This man has two small sons, aged 3 and 5 years, who need his support. And I am very sure that the State of Missouri does not need his labor. So why rob him of his liberty?

Robinson and Raskob.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SENATOR ROBINSON of Indiana, who was so anxious to preserve the precious integrity of Claudius Huston when that lobbyist was before the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee, was again squelched when he tried to instill in his cross-examination of John J. Raskob true Anti-Saloon League tactics. And it was two dry Senators who stopped him, Walsh and Caraway. The situation, as described by your able correspondent in one of the best stories that has come out of Washington this year, can be pictured. Asking his questions in a loud voice so that Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon League, standing back near the door, would be sure to hear and approve, Robinson demonstrated his hatred of a man who had the courage and resources to assist in the fight against prohibition. He is a true type of the Senator chosen when the Anti-Saloon League and the klan dominated elections. There may be a surprise awaiting some of them in the future.

MELVIN D. FULCHER.

Epitaph.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FROM the very moment the illegitimate birth of national prohibition was recorded, it was doomed to a short career, regardless of the careful nursing it received at the hands of its sponsors who were so ably aided by its foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bootlegger.

Now as the recent bulletin issued by old Dr. Public Opinion as to its condition reads that it is only a matter of a short time before its demise, would it not be a wise suggestion to some of the reverend gentlemen to brush up on their theology so that once again we might hear preached the word of God from those pulpits that so recently were converted into a nursery for this sickly child?

When buried, let its sarcophagus be built of abandoned stills, malt cans, pocket flasks, etc., and on it inscribe the names of those who were killed in the futile attempt to force it on the people.

THE COUNTY SEWER REVOLT.

The popular uprising in St. Louis County against the thoroughly bad Ralph sewer law continues to gain momentum. From 7000 to 10,000 names have been signed to two petitions circulated by the Taxpayers' Protective Association. One petition asks the Legislature to repeal the law, the other requests Prosecuting Attorney Castlen to take legal steps to save the county taxpayers from the law's effects. In the Overland sewer district a taxpayers' injunction suit has been filed against carrying out the Overland project. It is said similar suits will be filed in all other sewer districts but one. A sum of money has been raised by popular subscription to finance the legal fight on the bill. Many mass meetings have been held in which the law has been denounced in baldest terms. In these mass meetings the serious charge was made that the law was conceived and put over by a ring of lawyers, bankers and contractors. Over $400,000 has already been spent for preliminary work without a shovel being touched to the ground.

When the Ralph law was jammed through the 1927 Legislature by high pressure methods, Representative Alfred C. Wilson of Webster Groves characterized it as "a plum tree, every branch loaded with fruit awaiting the picking." He charged it was drawn to provide soft jobs with big salaries for lawyers and engineers. Wilson and Representative Roney of Webb City made repeated efforts, as the bill was on its way through the House, to amend it. They would have eliminated provisions permitting the organization of sewer districts without protection of the interests of property owners, and would have inserted restrictions on the salaries and fees to be paid. Jones H. Parker's leadership was successful in killing these amendments.

Under the Ralph law, 100 taxpayers can petition the Circuit Court to create a sewer district, whose affairs are managed by three supervisors, drawing $10 a day. The supervisors are empowered to select an attorney or attorneys, the number unlimited, and an engineer. The supervisors, moreover, have full authority to issue bonds, and to fix the salaries or fees of the attorneys and engineers without review by the Circuit Court or any other authority. In other words, at the behest of an insignificant minority of 100 taxpayers, a triumvirate with practically unlimited power is set up which may spend the taxpayers' money as it alone sees fit.

A valiant attempt to amend the law was made in the 1929 Legislature, where opponents submitted a modified bill giving taxpayers a voice in the issuance of bonds and levying of taxes, and requiring approval by the Circuit Court of all contracts and fee allowances made by the district supervisors. The movement was blocked in the House Judiciary Committee, which killed the bill.

Thus, having lost two fights in the Legislature, the taxpayers have been forced to use other means of self-protection. In the meantime, they found a powerful ally in taxpayers of Jackson County. According to the Kansas City Times: "The people affected in Jackson County believed the act furnished a good means of procuring needed sewers. They are much dissatisfied, however, with the scope of the district laid out, with the inequitable distribution of assessments for the proposed system, and with the fact that they have so little voice in determining their own affairs."

We trust the county will be successful in preventing operation of the law by legal means. It is an outrageous and undemocratic measure enacted over the protest of St. Louis County Representatives. Every encouragement should be given to the movement for its repeal by the next Legislature. By that time, perhaps, the metropolitan plan will be in effect and, as pointed out recently in these columns, "the projected metropolitan government will have authority to centralize maintenance and operation of sewers in a metropolitan Department of Sanitary Engineering." Under the plan, the sewer problem will be approached from an entirely new point of view and the abuses removed which now arouse the indignation of St. Louis county taxpayers.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND JURY SERVICE.

It has been suggested by a reader that public officials could aid in ameliorating unemployment conditions by filling the jury panels with unemployed men. He believes the Sheriff might act as registrar for men out of work who would then be cited for jury service. The fee for jurymen is now $3 a day, which would mean a great deal to men who have no income at the present time.

We are inclined to think the idea is as feasible as it is desirable.

"IFS" OF THE BASEBALL SEASON.

The Browns and Cardinals will appear this afternoon in their annual curtain-raiser to the baseball season. These games invariably bring out the full quota of fans, curious to compare the players in action with the reported conclusions of the experts who have watched the preparatory grind in the training camps.

Let us be fair to the experts. "Conclusions" is hardly the word to apply to their summations. Nobody knows better than the baseball writer the uncertainties of the national game, or the futility of predicting what a team will do over the long, long trail from April to October. They speak in "ifs," the cognoscenti. And it may be ventured, perhaps, that no baseball team ever swung into a season's campaign loaded down with a greater volume of more varied "ifs" than the Cardinals of 1930. For in the case of the Cardinals mediocrity were treason. This team must be a contender or a criminal. Wherefore the "ifs."

There are infield "ifs" and outfield "ifs" and batting "ifs" but it is in the pitching box that the "ifs" sprout as riotously as candles on a centenarian's birthday cake. If Bill Hallahan can only find the plate; if that other left-hander of the tribe of Kosciusko fulfills his promise; if Flint Rhem recovers the torrid invincibility of the distant Hornsby regime; if Sherdel regains the cunning which treacherously deserted him last year; if Haines retrieves that "knuckled" mystifier of faded afternoons—here is but a sprinkling of the "ifs" that dance a rigadoon upon Gabby Street's sleepless pillow.

Our Browns, we are informed, seek only honorable mention. In the American League the Philadelphia Athletics are generally conceded first place, though that concession may be riddled before autumn's flaming arabesques. With a few "ifs" happily resolved, such as Schulte's long delayed arrival at stardom and another cudgel or two of Manush dimen- up. But if a sport writer may grant the Browns a chance to finish second, may not the fan whose meat and drink is hope see the Browns carrying the championship banner across the parapets of September?

Of course, he can.

MURDER AS A BUSINESS.

Nothing comparable to the confession of Dr. A. J. Bass of Columbia, Mo., has been published hereabouts since the Birger episode in Southern Illinois.

According to Dr. Bass' story, murder is a business in the United States. It has its price. It takes thought. It requires brains. Dr. Bass, who was engaged in the business of trying to defraud life insurance companies, says that when he had a man to be killed he hired St. Louis gangsters to do the killing. The price in the case of a man who was to have been killed over in Indianapolis was $8000. The doctor doesn't say what it cost to have the Pearman murder committed in Arkansas, but the public is left to assume that if it was done by professional killers the Columbia dentist paid the scale. It was a major operation.

This is the sort of thing that flourished for several years over in Illinois. It was not until the people over there rose against the gangsters that life became secure. It is a commonplace in Chicago. The confession of Dr. Bass may or may not be wholly true. Nevertheless, it is not too much to believe that murder has become a business in this lawless time, that gunmen can be hired to commit murder, and that there is a market for their services. Mr. Hoover's Crime Commission is not to report for another year. That ought to be time enough in which to ascertain what went wrong with the country only a few years ago, and why.

In the answer to that question lies the explanation of the story told by Dr. Bass, and until we have that answer almost nothing can surprise us.

WHAT SHALL WE CALL OURSELVES?

Two new community names must be adopted, if the plan for a metropolitan government for St. Louis and St. Louis County goes through. One must be for the municipality that will cover all of the present city and county and constitute the central authority. The other district that will need a cognomen will be the outlying area which it is proposed to incorporate into a new sort of simple town.

Leaders in the merger movement have been referring to the proposed metropolis as Greater St. Louis, or, using a more complete legal term, the City of Greater St. Louis. Three factors are involved in choosing this title—it ought to include the historic term of "St. Louis" in order to reap the greatest benefit for the community and retain the prestige gained through 166 years of history; it should differ from the name of the existing city, which will continue its own identity, and it should be simple and "catchy." It ought to be possible to refer to all citizens of the community briefly as "St. Louisans."

It is not so easy to christen the outlying territory, where the antiquated old form of county government would be wiped out under the plan. Lindbergh City and Essenville are ruled out at the start. The City and County Metropolitan Development Committee, Chamber of Commerce Building, would like to receive suggestions on this matter of names. Maybe they had better start a contest.

MORE ABOUT CONTRACT.

A stout defender of contract bridge appeared in Letters From the People on Wednesday, in reply to an editorial on this subject. The defender has said everything he could say for the game. We, on the other hand, in our brief comment, didn't say a fraction of what we might have said against it. We shall continue to practice this same restraint.

After all, as the stout defender asserts, a great many people are playing contract. Truly, the game is "growing by leaps and bounds." But what, pray, does that prove? The same thing could be said, and, indeed, has been said about golf. And almost everybody has acquaintances who pretend to enjoy golf, though if there is another pastime on the planet with deeper depths of woe, misery, heartache and black despair than those plumbed by the devotees of golf—if there is such a pastime it must be contract bridge.

It may be that this game possesses all the qualities its stout defender vests it with. It may be a game of infinite variety, demanding the concentration of an Einstein, the skill of a Leonardo da Vinci, the aplomb of a Voltaire, and the daring of a Harry Sinclair. But who gets any fun out of it? Oh, there are joyous incidents in it, to be sure, and, occasionally, a profitable session. But, by and large, it is a weary way, rutted with blundering, stupidity and cowardice and ending in acrimonious tears and deplorable profanation.

Our position on contract, however, is just this: Let those who want it have it. But why, we should like to ask, should anyone play contract bridge, or any other card game, so long as stud poker is available to enthrall, intrigue, enrich, impoverish and everlastingly delight?

TOY BOATS AS A TRAFFIC HAZARD.

The pleasant Sunday afternoon pastime of sailing toy boats may become a thing of the past in Forest Park if Commissioner Pape has his way. For several years "real youngsters and those in their second childhood," as a recent writer in our Letter Column felicitously phrased it, have delighted in watching the white sails of their miniature craft fill with the breeze, propelling them gracefully across the small lake near the Municipal Opera. A more innocuous sport it would be difficult to find. But, says the Park Commissioner, it is objectionable. And why? Because too many people driving by in autos stop or slacken speed to watch the sport, or even park their machines nearby, all this creating congestion, confusion and intolerable conditions in general.

It is unfortunate that sailboats placidly swimming in the lake should suddenly become such a traffic hazard that they must be curbed and regulated. Would it not be rather more sensible to regulate the traffic? Since this is not one of the park's main thoroughfares, it might be barred to parking or even to driving, if that will lessen the menace of sailing toy boats. At least one spot in the park should be available for this attractive sport. It would be a gracious favor to the youngsters, too, if the bulrushes and overhanging branches which interfere with the boats were removed. These bulrushes and tree limbs, Mr. Pape says, are under the jurisdiction of the State Game and Fish Department, which uses the pool for fish propagation. Sailboats shouldn't bother the

Small Loan Conditions in Missouri

As result of reduction in small loan interest rate, poorest borrowers are being driven to salary buyers, who charge 20 per cent; small loan expert thinks higher Missouri courts will hold anti-salary buying amendment constitutional; loan sharks' past success in State due to public indifference.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Leon Henderson, of the Russell Sage Foundation.

CHECKING up on small loan conditions in Missouri, I find that by reason of the reduction by the Legislature of the legal rate in Missouri from 3½ to 2½ per cent, licensed lenders are no longer making loans of $100 or less, because these can be made only at a loss. As a result, the poorest borrowers and those that need $100 or less are driven to the salary buyers, who charge 20 per cent for their loans.

I have carefully examined the recent lower court decision, which held the anti-salary buying amendment unconstitutional, and I do not find any great cause for alarm. The higher courts of Maryland and Virginia have held the same identical language to be a just exercise of police power for protecting poor borrowers, and I have no doubt the highest court in Missouri will grant the same protection. It is interesting that in the same week in which the adverse Missouri decision was being rendered, an Ohio Judge was holding the same law constitutional and likening salary buying to petty thievery and robbery.

The temper of the 1929 Legislature was so pronouncedly in favor of eliminating the salary-purchasing loan sharks that I do not believe the 1931 Legislature will hesitate many days before correcting any defects which Judge Rutledge seemed to find. The case before Judge Rutledge was not the usual salary-purchasing case, and the discount was only one-fourth the usual discount charged by the loan sharks.

Most important of all, however, is that salary-purchasing loan sharks as they operate in Missouri are criminal violators of the small loan law in Missouri, whether there is any anti-salary-purchasing clause in it or not. The salary-purchasing loan shark has been exterminated from several states by prosecutions under the basic small loan law, which is identical with that of Missouri. In other words, courts have uniformly held that the practice of salary-purchasing loan sharks is nothing more than usurious money lending and as such is subject to all usury and other small loan laws. There are a number of cases coming up in the Circuit Court very soon on this issue, and I have no doubt the Court will hold that the matter before it is money lending and not some technical matter of law drafting.

The salary buyers have grown somewhat bolder in recent weeks and are trying to intimidate borrowers into paying accounts, some of which run back several years. Fortunately, the Better Business Bureau is giving the borrowers good advice as to their rights, and other agencies in the city interested in the borrower can well afford to follow their example. The loan sharks are attempting desperate means to win the battle in Missouri, in the hope of gaining back the rich territory they enjoyed unmolested for so many years. A little support at the present time and a continued demand that loan sharks be prosecuted will help prevent recurrence of the awful conditions which existed formerly. It is a well-known fact that the loan offices in St. Louis are units of loan shark chains which have been prosecuted in other states and in many cases forced to withdraw. In Missouri, as in no other state, the loan shark has seemed to have some mysterious protection, mainly because society was indifferent. But at the present time there are many agencies alert to protect the borrowers' interests.

America's Starving Aborigines

Ruby A. Black in the Nation.

THE forces fighting for reform in Indian affairs have gone through their first major struggle and have come out only partly victorious against a formidable and stubborn foe. Their adversary—and in fairness it must be said that he fought only part of their program—was Representative Louis C. Cramton of Michigan, chairman of the subcommittee of the Committee on Appropriations which handles the appropriations for the Department of the Interior. The gentleman from Michigan, who since 1921 has practically controlled Indian administration, is responsible for cutting down the appropriation asked by President Hoover to stop the slow starvation of Indian children in Government boarding schools. Fortunately, the Senate, backed by public opinion, forced him in the end to allow twice as much money for food as he at first approved.

It is something to have won any concession from this willful and frequently obdurate man. Why he should want to limit these Indian children to 23 cents a day for food and $22 a year for clothing, instead of adopting the standard of 40 cents a day for food and $45 a year for clothing recom-

Rhoads and J. Henry Scattergood, is an unsolvable mystery.

At any rate, President Hoover approved the estimates of the commissioners, and further suggested that the new standards be put into effect immediately. In December he sent to Congress a request for a deficiency appropriation of $1,100,000 for food and clothing and $400,000 for health work during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930. True, before the appropriation was approved by the House, Representative Cramton succeeded in diverting part of the sum intended for food so that the children will not benefit to the extent intended during the current year, but in 1931 the new schedule will go into full effect.

It is indeed fortunate that the first issue raised in their struggle to bring the Indian Bureau out of the morass was one which drew the support of people everywhere—the starvation of Indian children. Even though they did not win a full victory, the public support they received in this fight may strengthen them against the temptation to waver, even temporarily, when more complex and less human and comprehensible issues arise. They must refuse to yield to such temptations if the "new Indian

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

AUDACIOUS AUDUBON—By Edward A. Muschamp (Brentano's, New York, $3.50).

A well chosen title that serves to express a closely followed theme is Muschamp's "Audacious Audubon." The style of the writer is not good. The use of trite phrases is frequent enough in the first chapters to cause the reader some annoyance, but farther along the numerous quotations from Audubon's journal begin to appear and soon the defects of style are lost in the interesting personality of the subject.

Audacious Audubon! Was there ever a man so audacious as he? It took audacity to woo and win the woman he did; beautiful and sensible Lucy Bakewell. And then to take her into the wilderness along the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers and to leave her there to raise her boys while he went chasing and painting birds!

After losing nearly all of the money he and his wife had, he concluded that he did not want to be a merchant after all, that his talent ought to be put to some use, and that he would use it in painting all the birds of America and then have these pictures published life-size and in natural colors!

How he fails to secure a publisher in America, how he goes to England financed by his wife, who teaches school to raise the money, how after 12 years and several trips across the ocean the wonderful book was published and paid for by Audubon himself, is well told and enlivened by copious notes from Audubon's journal and with quotations from contemporaries.

It is almost unbelievable that a man could persuade any publisher to undertake to publish four volumes three feet three inches long, two feet five inches wide and three inches thick, full of life-sized, natural-colored bird pictures, 1065 figures in all. Of course they were such pictures as had never been seen before; but even then it required audacity to sell the idea to the publisher, and a great deal more to sell the books themselves. And they had to be sold to pay the publisher. They were sold by Audubon himself at $1000 a set, 170 sets of them, away back in the 1830's. Talk about modern salesmanship! Audubon was an audacious salesman.

There are many interesting items in the book that are not illustrative of the audacity of the man, but they are delightful reading and so the author may be pardoned for stepping aside to give the rattlesnake controversy or to tell of the wife and boys. But on the whole the book is just what its title says it is: the story of an audacious man who by his own efforts and the aid of a fully appreciative wife achieves enduring fame.

JUNE MOON. By Ring Lardner and George S. Kaufman. (Scribner's, $2.00).

In reply to a request for his opinion of the new music a "wisecracker" replied that it probably is a lot better than it sounds, and, in just that sense, "June Moon" is a lot better than it seems. For it seems to be merely a succession of rapid-fire lines of a vaudeville brand of cleverness, strung together upon a none-too-secure strand of plot. It is that, but it is also something better, for the rapid-fire lines are invariably amusing; the laughable situations always reveal character; and the characters have foibles so universal in nature that after reading "June Moon," we know a little bit more about the amusing, if none too lovely, spots in ourselves and in our neighbors than we had known before the experience. And the experience itself is great fun.

Probably all of us have wondered what sort of a person wrote the sentimental songs which we in our youth sang with so much more callow enthusiasm than musical discrimination and the other too-similar songs which the young people of today are in like manner singing. Mr. Ring Lardner and Mr. George S. Kaufman have set themselves the task of showing us. What we see is a mixture of egoism, ignorance, sentimentality, earnestness, and naivete—in other words, a creature with whom everybody who knows himself is quite familiar. To say that the play is sufficiently entertaining to delight the Tired Business Man is an insult neither to the Tired Business Man nor to the play. Of course, in reading "June Moon," we do not feel ourselves to be in the presence of drama. The plot, which seems to have worked itself out as a surprise both to the audience and to the authors—it is just that well-knit, poor thing!—is one of the factors which takes care of that.

FANNIE COOK.

CLOSE-HAULED, by Henry K. Pasma. (Stokes.)

If you will disregard the publisher's contention that "Close-Hauled" contains some or the finest sea writing since Conrad, this saga of Henry K. Pasma should afford an evening or two of delightful entertainment.

Let any publisher launch a new writer to the tune that he smacks of some revered genius, and we feel at liberty to unsheath the literary yard-stick. Having unsheathed, measured, and decided that "Close-Hauled" bears no similarity to Conrad in either tone or treatment, let the yard-stick be sheathed, forgotten, and let "Close-Hauled" stand on its own legs. It has, indeed, rather sturdy legs of its own.

In the beginning we are given a warmly intimate picture of the author's early boyhood in Friesland. This is presented in painstaking detail and seems to be a labor of love. Reared among the sturdy, church-going middle-class, the author foregóes a position in his father's exporting business and at the age of 13 signs on a sailing vessel as cabin boy. Follows a voyage up the Baltic with the trials and tribulations of a landlubber being initiated into the hardbit school of those who go down to the sea in windjammers. The account of this voyáge fills a hundred pages of a three hundred-odd page book.

Autobiographer Pasma is best as a chronicler of detail, and in this he is always illuminating. When he falls to philosophizing he becomes heavy and sometimes pedantic, and one is conscious of listening to an orator delivering platitudes not too successfully clothed.

The book is sponsored in a foreword by Mr. Edward M. Bok.—L. F. Nebel.

UNION ELECTRIC BUYS PLANE TO SURVEY ROUTE FOR LINES

The Union Electric Light & Power Co. has purchased a trimotored airplane to be used for surveying transmission lines and for patrolling them. The ship, a Ford monoplane, cost $55,000, will be delivered in about 10 days.

The plane will be used to patrol transmission lines between Keokuk, Ia., St. Louis and Rivermines, Mo., and to survey more than 500 miles of proposed lines leading from the new hydro-electric development of the company on the Osage River. Tests have shown that airplanes are valuable in determining the best location for transmission lines, company officers say.

The plane is capable of carrying 12 passengers but will have places only for eight, the remaining space being, arranged for the carrying of supplies to the Osage river project.

CLEMENCEAU BOOK DENOUNCES U. S., ASSAILS PERSHING

French War Premier in Posthumous Work Criticises Delay in Sending American Troops to Battle

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Georges Clemenceau's last sharp retort to his late antagonist, Marshal Ferdinand Foch, was issued in book form here today, under the title, "Grandeur and Misery of Victory."

Writing beside his deathbed, he took the ghost of the allies' Generalissimo to task for "recriminations and abuse," and accused America of greedy materialism.

The Treaty of Versailles, to the wartime Premier of France, who died only recently on completion of this final book, was mutilated by America's "separate peace."

President Wilson is regarded as a visionary, with an insufficient knowledge of Europe to carry out his ideology.

And Gen. Pershing comes in for comment for what Clemenceau called a "fanatical determination to delay the arrival of the Star-Spangled Banner on the battlefield."

For this delay in the empoyment of the American forces, Clemenceau largely blamed Foch's "hesitancies and temperings of authority."

"The Marshal," he wrote, "had the power to command. On his own admission he preferred to 'suggest.'"

It was largely on the reputation Foch made at the battle of the Yser, which checked a German advance in 1914, that Clemenceau recommended the Marshal in April, 1918, for the supreme command of the allied armies. He took command April 14.

Row With Pershing.

Then the "rather serious disagreement with Gen. Pershing" developed.

"The American troops, Clemenceau said, "in the first rank as far as bravery is concerned, were first and foremost excellent soldiers in a state of mere improvisation."

During the spring of 1918, Clemenceau said, he importuned Pershing to send into action in the French ranks "the first American contingents that were considered sufficiently trained so as to relieve us as much as possible at the sharpest pinch of such a crisis of manpower as our armies had never known before."

But Pershing "owed it to the romantic side of America's intervention to form a self-contained American army, a duty I never failed to acknowledge.

"His Government, his country, his army even, kept him in suspense, and the more I insisted the more the American General resisted."

Calls Foch Insubordinate.

Clemenceau also accused Foch of insubordination in refusing to transmit a telegram containing a summons to the plenipotentiaries of Germany to Versailles to receive the text of the peace preliminaries fixed by the allies,

As for President Wilson, "he acted to the very best of his abilities in circumstances the origins of which had escaped him and whose ulterior developments lay beyond his ken."

Edward M. House, he regarded as "a spercivilized persons escaped from the wilds of Texas, who sees everything, who understands everything, while never doing anything but what he thinks fit, knows how to gain the ear and respect of everybody," and "Mr. Hoover, who was conspicuous for the stiffness of the man whose nerves are at the end of their tether."

In France, Clemenceau concluded, "the vital spark is gone.

Greed Versus Self-Respect.

"Our allies, dis-allied, have contributed largely to this result and we have never done anything to deter them. England in various guises has gone back to her old policy of strife on the continent, and America, prodigiously enriched by the war, is presenting us with a tradesmans account that does more honor to her greed than to her self-respect. * * *

"Grown rich in the war, America is, if we can believe the experts, setting out to ruin us by intercepting, for the extravagances of her budding nouveaux riches, the sums that we are to receive as reparations for the damage caused by Germany.

"At the same time she is a thorn in the side of England, who can no longer aspire to the dominion of the seas under the pretext of 'freedom.' All the new Central Europe is in a state of turmoil as a result of the recrudescence of violent activity on the part of a Germany, who, with the unwitting help of the English and Americans, is preparing to start on another criminal venture before she has expiated the last."

"Above all," he warns America, "do not be so ingenuous as to believe that you will disarm, by methods of persuasion, the Powers who see you strengthening against every eventuality your means of defense, which might turn into means of aggression."

"Grandeur and Misery of Victory" is published in this country by Harcourt, Brace & Co., and was carried in part by Collier's Weekly, which holds joint copyright for the United States.

WALSH DEFENDS WILBUR ON POWER LEASE IN MONTANA

Senator From Western State Upholds Secretary for Dropping Application of Minneapolis Man.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Interior Department officials said last night that the Montana Power Co. had declined a proposal by Secretary Wilbur for development of the Flathead, Mont., river sites, but that negotiations toward a lease still were in progress.

Secretary Wilbur's proposal is understood to have been that the company pay $50,000 a year while the power project was under construction; $104,000 a year until power developed reached a total of 68,000-horsepower, and an increasing rate as developed power increased beyond the latter figure.

Disclosure of the status of negotiations followed a defense by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, of the action of Secretary Wilbur in making the proposal to the power company on behalf of the commission.

Speaking in the Senate, Walsh indorsed Wilbur's "apparently" abandoning consideration of application for a development permit by Walter H. Wheeler, Minneapolis engineer. The Montana Senator insisted he held no brief for the power company, but said he was determined that the sites should not longer lie idle.

"There is no reason why I should be disposed to favor the company," Walsh declared. "Neither I nor my colleague (Senator Wheeler) would be here if those allied with the Montana Power Co. had their way."

Contempt of Senate.

Attacking a statement by Benjamin Marsh, secretary of the People's Lobby, Walsh asserted that Marsh was guilty of contempt of the Senate because of his remarks. Marsh's statement, issued Thursday, declared that Walsh was "acting like a lobbyist for the Montana Power Co. would act" in opposing an effort by Marsh to have introduced in the Senate a resolution halting issuance of a lease for development of the power sites until further investigation could be made by a Senate committee.

Marsh promptly issued a statement attacking Walsh's speech on the floor, with the assertion that "the ability which enabled Senator Walsh to serve so acceptably for years as attorney for the Anaconda Copper Co., tied up with the Montana Power Co., is sufficient to enable him to realize the difference between an honest lease for a 50-year term, and public development of power."

Walsh said he had no intention of pressing the charge that Marsh was in contempt of the Senate.

"I shall endeavor to bear with what fortitude I can the attack made on me," said Walsh, adding. "I am sure the declaration on his part was made without reflection."

Frazier Interrupts.

Senator Frazier (Rep.), North Dakota, chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee, interrupted Walsh to ask about the fundamental relative merits of the development proposals of the power company and of Wheeler.

"I know the Indians are anxious to have the sites developed," Frazier said, "but they are also eager to get the best deal possible."

Walsh said that there is in fact only one application for development before the Federal Power Commission—that of the Rocky Mountain Power Co., subsidiary of the Montana Power Co. He said Wheeler's proposal was merely an application for a preliminary permit, at the expiration of which he would be at liberty to pursue or to drop his plans to develop power for fertilizer manufacture and other industries.

SECRETARY OF WAR ILL

Hurley Absent From Office but Not in Any Danger.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Secretary of War Hurley was confined to his home today by the recurrence of an old digestive ailment. It will be several days before he can return to his desk, but he is in no danger and no operation is planned.

He is being attended by Dr. James F. Mitchell, who performed an operation on him before the war.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 12.

THE growing popularity of the medium priced tearoom is wrinkling brows of proprietors of expensive cafes. The tearoom was once confined only to Greenwich Village. It was a small, candle-lit basement decorated in chintz and as Victorian as a lacy valentine.

Such places were presided over by a sort of high priestess in sandals and a Grecian robe. She was usually a disappointed artist, sculptor or writer and her patrons were allied in some remote manner with the arts. Painting ashtrays, making lamp shades or pounding brass.

But in the past five years the tearoom has taken on a Tudor splendor and jumped northward. Almost every block in the business and residential section has several. As they grow in number they grow in grandeur. Decorators are brought from Europe to floss them up.

The tearoom today is managed by alert men and women with a practical knowledge of business. The clientele has changed. Innumerable theater parties in evening dress will be found dining there. Executives go there for conferences—away from jazz music and other fumididdles.

Nearly every fashionable hotel has a tearoom or so nearby. They prosper largely on trade of patrons registered at these inns. The tearooms offer luncheons from 60 cents to $1 and dinner from $1 to $2. The food is served by attractive young waitresses.

The culinary appeal is especially for those who enjoy "home cooking." Many owners are from the South and have succeeded in transplanting colored cooks who are adept at making cornbread, beaten biscuits, real pan gravy and home-made pies and cakes and the like.

Surprisingly enough, the best and most widely patronized tearooms are in the perfumed purlieus of Madison avenue, Sutton place, Park and upper Fifth avenues. There are a number paying from $20,000 to $50,000 a year rental. And packed to capacity.

FOUR hard-boiled brothers of a chorus beauty recently decided to visit a married gentleman who had been paying attention to their sister and learn his intentions. She telephoned him: "My brothers are on the way to fix you." This was six weeks ago and he is still missing.

THE orchid bill of a Hollywood motion picture magnate is $100 a day. They are sent to a young debutante 26 years his junior.

A FLORIST tells me he has several bachelor customers whose bills are from $500 to $2000 monthly. His biggest single order came from the Prince of Wales on his last visit. The Prince attended a dinner party the night before and next morning each lady present—72 in all—received two dozen lovely and expensive roses.

I ANTICIPATED a kick in picking up the Mouthpiece, the newest in magazines in New York, designed, its sponsors say, as "a medium of communication between the underworld and the upper." But found it as dull as dishwater. Yet it is a good idea.

HARRY RICHMAN is said to have topped the salaries of all stage performers, at least for one week, recently. His income from his night club, stage, movie and other activities reached $12,500 for a seven-day period.

IN his airplane smash Fred Stone lost his famous shrill whistle. His tongue hung by a shred and was patched up by surgeons, but a scar prevents the proper curl. He spends hours practicing, like a small boy, and says he will overcome the trouble.

"COME up some day," invites Bronx Zoo attendant, "and we'll dig up some human interest for you."

Yes, and have that monkey house keeper chase me again

MUSIC

Roland Hayes

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

ROLAND HAYES, the Negro tenor, disclosed a subtle and affecting art in a song recital given at the Coliseum last evening. His program was remarkable for its high quality and his singing was a revelation of what can be done with an ordinary voice when it is at the disposal of superior artistic gifts.

The first three divisions of the program included numbers by Purcell, Handel, Saint-Saens, Duparc, Schubert, Schumann and Rachmaninoff, and, as is usual at Hayes' concerts the last group was composed entirely of Negro spirituals.

Though the Negro tenor's mental and emotional compass is sufficient to embrace music of all types, the nature of his voice is such as to make him most effective in the more delicate and lyrical songs. He is apparently quite aware of that for his programs never run very largely to numbers conspicuous for their dramatic force.

Schubert's song "Du Bist Die Ruh," which led the third group of his concert last evening, was the finest possible example of deeply felt emotion tempered by a fastidious sense of values. The extent of his feeling was suggested rather than displayed for he was practising a consistent restraint and at the same time making very close distinctions of volume and color.

Henry Purcell's song, "When I Am Laid Away in Earth," was also a memorable artistic achievement—an achievement that served to remind one that England must have produced great music at at least one point in her history.

Strangely enough, Hayes was least effective in the group of Negro spirituals. The elegance of phrasing and refinement of dynamics which raised the art songs on his program to such a high level robbed these naive folksongs of an essential simplicity. It was like carrying potatoes in a plush-lined basket.

A large audience gave all the usual evidences of great enthusiasm, and apparently were not disconcerted by the unfavorabe acoustic properties of the auditorium. Hayes sang a number of encores, among them being Beethoven's "Adelaida."

HEAVY GUARD READY TO KEEP EASTER PEACE IN JERUSALEM

Christians, Jews and Moslems to Observe Religious Festivals in Next 10 Days.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, April 12.—Elaborate precautions have been taken by the Palestine Government and the police to preserve order during the next 10 days, the Christian Easter, the Jewish Passover and the Moslem festival of Nebi Musa, all occurring at approximately the same time. The Moslem festival began yesterday.

To prevent conflict among the various worshipers, detachments of troops and machine gun posts have been placed at the Damascus and Jaffa gates of the city. Armored cars are being held in readiness, and British police armed with rifles are patrolling the streets. There was no violence yesterday though a much larger influx of Arabs from the surrounding country was observed than in previous years.

A detailed program regulating the hours at which processions organized by the different religious bodies may take place has been drawn up. It also restricts them to certain routes. The Arab executive has issued a proclamation conveying greetings to all on the occasion of the festival.

SOCONY AND VACUUM SAY MERGER IS LEGAL

Reply to Government's Contention That It Would Violate Dissolution Decree.

The Standard Oil Co. of New York and the Vacuum Oil Co., in an answer filed yesterday in Federal Court here to the Government's petition that they be restrained from completing a proposed merger of the Vacuum company with the Socony Oil Co., on the ground that this would be in violation of the decree of 1919 dissolving the Standard Oil monopoly, declare that the proposed merger will in no way violate that decree.

The answer declares there is no provision in the decree prohibiting the union of any two of the subsidiaries of the Standard after they were freed of the domination of the parent company. Any such prohibitory clause, it is contended, would be unlawful. The answer recites:

"The object of the contract" (of merger) "here at issue is and its effect will be to enable Socony and Vacuum each to help meet its needs in this country and abroad, arising from organic developments in the industry, by availing itself of the complementary resources and facilities of the other.

"Vacuum now needs for the distribution of its specialized products the use of the distributing facilities of Socony and in turn the union will aid Socony in that further widening of those facilities which is called for by the modern trend of industry.

"Abroad the important businesses as carried on by Vacuum and Socony need the union for the resulting stability and added strength in competition with the much stronger foreign interests, which are under present conditions much more advantageously circumstanced in those countries.

"Vacuum's present business there needs the production of the base afforded by Socony's crude supplies and refining facilities for gasoline, and in turn the union will afford opportunities for Socony's development in foreign markets along its characteristic lines. In addition, the two companies are in various ways affected in their business abroad by the general conditions and tendencies which call for the union of their interests in this country."

AUTOBIOGRAPHY TO BE READ AT FUNERAL OF JOHN MAULE

Services for Coal Operator Who Died at 94, to Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for John Maule, 94 years old, who died Thursday at St. Vincent's Home for the Aged, Belleville, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Burke chapel in East St. Louis, where the Dev. D. C. Boyd will read passages of the aged operator's autobiography, telling of early experiences in the coal fields of St. Louis County and Illinois.

Maule, who was born in Scotland, has told of buying mine props from Ulysses S. Grant, who delivered them to his mine in St. Louis County with an ox team. He retired 15 years ago, leaving his property in charge of his sons. He married twice and had 21 children, of whom 11 survive.

J. A. LANIUS, TEACHER FOR 62 YEARS, DIES

Palmyra Educator, Father of Mrs. C. M. Hay, Succumbs at Barnes Hospital.

James A. Lanius of Palmyra, Mo., veteran Missouri educator and father of Mrs. Charles M. Hay, 9 Windermere place, died at Barnes Hospital last midnight. He was 83 years old, and had been in failing health for the last year, never completely recovering from an operation three years ago. He had been in the hospital a week.

Although he suffered an accident in childhood which left him a cripple for life and necessitated the use of crutches, he was absent from the classroom only five and a half days in 62 years of teaching. He retired in 1925. Two years later he became blind, but continued to keep pace with modern events through use of the radio.

Mr. Lanius was born July 13, 1846, at Louisiana, Mo., and was educated at Central College, Fayette, Mo. He was married to Miss Eleanor Bird, Harrodsburg, Ky., in 1872. They became the parents of five children, all of whom are college graduates. Of the five, three are educators and one is a minister. Besides Mrs. Hay, the daughters are Mrs. S. A. Stewart, who has been a missionary in China for 30 years, and Mrs. Carl Trowbridge, who assists her husband in conducting a college at Weaverville, N. C. The sons are the Rev. C. V. Lanius, who lives in Illinois, and Tudor Lanius, professor of English in a college at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Throughout his academic career, Mr. Lanius taught classical languages and was considered one of the best authorities on Latin in Missouri. From 1874 to 1884, he was vice president of the old Smith Academy in St. Louis. He was principal of Centenary Academy at Palmyra from 1884 to 1891, and from 1898 to 1912 was president of the Methodist College at St. Charles, Mo. He also taught Latin and Greek at Pritchett College, Glasgow, Mo., and Latin at Palmyra High School where he served until his retirement.

Besides distinguishing himself as a teacher, Mr. Lanius originated the plan for correlating the various Methodist schools in Missouri into a State-wide organization, headed by Central College. Under this plan, which was put into effect in 1899, graduates of the intermediate institutions have been sent to Central College for completion of their academic work.

The body will lie in state at undertaking parlors at 1905 Union boulevard today and funeral services will be held at Palmyra at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow.

CHARLES A. HARNETT FUNERAL

Services for Realty Dealer Tomorrow in East St. Louis.

Funeral services for Charles A. Harnett, 5171 Waterman avenue, who died Thursday at Missouri Baptist Hospital of pneumonia following a fracture of the hip, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Immanuel Evangelical Church, East St. Louis.

Mr. Harnett, who was 49 years old and had dealt in real estate, largely on the East Side, for 20 years, was attempting to straighten a bumper on his automobile near Granite City three weeks ago when it broke and he fell to the pavement. He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

GRAIN LIST LOWER ON LOCAL BOARD

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 12.—Wheat futures had setback of about 2 cents at the closing session of the week on local market influenced by possibility of growth relief next week and absence of export demand. Corn also lost more than cent.

Declines of cent to more took place in May and July wheat early following unchanged opening. Winnipeg sold off a cent early after unchanged start. Liverpool closed ⅛d lower on three deliveries. Corn showed fractional setback following unchanged to higher initial sales.

May wheat opened at $1.10⅝, July wheat $1.11⅝, September wheat $1.14⅝. May corn 84⅛c and July wheat 86⅛c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 59,400 bushels, compared with 50,000 a week ago and 51,800 a year ago, included 65 cars local and 5 through. Corn receipts, which were 137,200 bushels, compared with 74,300 a week ago and 91,000 a year ago, included 92 cars local and 6 through. Oats receipts, which were 50,000 bushels, compared with 46,200 a week ago and 143,000 a year ago, included 10 cars local and 7 through. Hay receipts were 14 cars local and 3 through.

WHEAT CLOSES HEAVY ON CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 12.—General selling, much of it of a stop-loss character, sent the wheat market reeling downward today, notwithstanding that farm board allies were conspicuous buyers. Nearly complete absence of export and domestic milling demand added to the bearish effect of weather changes that were construed as incentives toward lower prices. Speculators led the late selling, whereas purchasing toward the last was confined largely to traders who previously had been sellers and were therefore in a position to collect profits.

Wheat closed heavy, 1⅝@2⅛c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅝@1⅛c down, oats ⅝@⅞c off and provisions showing 5@10c drop.

Notice also was taken of "bread days," observed in Italy as a campaign measure to reduce wheat imports. Opening at ⅛ cent off to ⅛ cent up, wheat prices showed material breaks.

Corn, oats and provisions went downgrade likewise, with corn starting at ⅛ cent decline to ¼ cent advance and subsequently showing a general sag.

Selling of wheat futures received special emphasis from an official weekly forecast of widespread rain or snow. Notice was taken of Salina (Kan.) dispatches, which said good rain soon would not only put a stop to crop punishment, but would repair some of the damage already done, and added that the wheat plants at present could stand more drouth effects than would be the case a month later, when large size would require greater moisture.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Raw sugar was unchanged at 3.30c for spots duty paid. Buyers showed interest at this level, but holders were generally asking 1-32c more. The only sales confirmed was 30,000 bags of Cuban to an outport refiner at 1.41c for April shipment.

Raw futures were quiet and prices were partially lower under liquidation in the near positions and some selling by houses with Cuban connections, promoted by the continued liberal offerings in the spot market. The trade at large were inclined to limit fresh commitments, and there appeared to be a disposition to hold off and await the results of Monday's meeting in Cuba, where the dissolution of the single selling agency will again be discussed.

Opening prices were unchanged to 3 points lower and there was little variation thereafter, with final prices not unchanged to 2 points lower, with the near months relatively easy. Approximate sales were only 8800 tons. In the No. 2 contract closing prices were 1 point lower with no sales reported. Closing prices: No. 1, May, 1.62c; July, 1.66c; September, 1.72c; December, 1.80c; January, 1.84c; March, 1.89c; No. 2, July, 2.34c; September, 2.62c; December, 2.72c.

Sugar futures closed steady; approximated sales, 3450 tons; May, 1.67; July, 1.65@1.67; Sept., 1.73; Dec., 1.82; Jan. 1.84; March 1.90.

Operations of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. in 1929 resulted in a net loss of $2,948,272, compared with net profits of $3,225,876, or $5.84 a share in 1928.

UNCHANGED TO LOWER CLOSE ON COTTON

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 7 points to an advance of 1 point. Futures closed steady, unchanged to six points lower: May, 16.27@30; July, [illegible]; October, 15.50; Dec. 15.66; Jan. 15.66; new contracts-October, 15.34@35; Dec. 15.38@40; Jan. 15.46; March 15.6[illegible]. Spot steady, middling 16.55.

There was some realizing in the near months apparently, and perhaps a little selling on relatively easy Liverpool cables and a favorable view of recent weather conditions in the South. Offerings were absorbed by week-end covering, however, and the market held fairly steady before session had advanced far with the active months ruling about 3 points net lower to 1 point higher.

Liverpool cables reported continental liquidation, Bombay buying and covering in that market.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance was estimated at 117,000 bales, against 108,000 last year.

MODERATE LOSSES NUMEROUS ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The Curb Market was subjected to a moderate amount of week-end profit-taking today, but operations for the advance were resumed in some of the utilities and specialties before the close. Moderate losses were numerous at the close, but a handful of issues were substantially higher. Trading slackened considerably from the fast pace maintained during most of the week.

Electric Bond & Share gained more than 2 points, and American & Foreign Power warrants were bid up 4 points in the final dealings. Hydro Electric securities sagged for a time, but rallied to close at $5, its high of the year, and up 1 point net. American Light & Traction new stock dropped 2½ points in profit-taking, but then rallied to close with a loss of less than a point. The United Gas stocks continued the rally which set in yesterday, the certificates closing up about a point. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore lost 2 points.

The industrials and specialties were highly irregular. Fairchild was again a feature of the aviation issues, rising more than 2 points to a new high for the year at 16. This company is controlled by Aviation Corporation. Fokker, on the other hand, sagged. Deere new stock encountered considerable profit-taking, ending the day with a loss of a couple of points. Oils were dull and inclined to ease. Vacuum lost about a point and Gulf and Cities Service sagged fractionally.

ST. LOUIS MARKET

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, April 12.—Total sales amounted to 1636 shares, compared with 2144 shares yesterday. Bond sales were $2000, compared with $3000 yesterday.

PASSENGER PLANE LINE, HERE TO NEW ORLEANS

Service Each Way Daily Planned by Frank H. Robertson's Concern.

Daily passenger service between St. Louis and Memphis, Tenn., and New Orleans, La., is to be started by the Robertson Airplane Service Co. as soon as equipment can be obtained and schedules arranged, it was announced today.

Frank H. Robertson, former head of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, now a unit of Universal Airlines, is president of the concern. Associated with Robertson are his brother, Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Mfg. Co., Phil DeC. Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, and Harold Bixby and Harry H. Knight, who, with Maj. Robertson, were among Col. Charles A. Lindberg's backers. The company was organized last year and conducts an airplane service and storage business at Lambert-St. Louis Field. The capital is to be increased from $100,000 to $250,000 to finance the airline operation.

Test Flight Tomorrow.

A test flight is to be made over the route tomorrow by the Robertsons, Pilot Joe Reed, and a representative of the Industrial Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. According to present plans, twin-engined planes carrying six passengers and a pilot will be used. The schedule between St. Louis and New Orleans, including a stop at Memphis, will be about five hours. The distance is 600 miles. One plane will be operated each way daily, the St. Louis terminal being at Lambert-St. Louis Field. The fare will be same as that charged by other air lines, about 5 cents a mile.

Orders have been placed for three planes to start the service, and operation will begin within 60 days, according to Robertson. As the schedule calls for daylight operation it will not be necessary to light the airway, expediting inauguartion of the service.

The planes to be used, the newly-developed Curtiss-Kingbird, have a maximum speed of 135 miles an hour and will gain altitude with but one motor running, recent tests have shown. Tests are being made with more powerful engines, giving the plane a top speed of 160 miles an hour.

Agreement With Railroads.

Plans call for an exchange of passengers with railroads at St. Louis. The air line probably will be extended to Chicago later if traffic makes an extension advisable, Robertson said. A survey of travel between St. Louis and New Orleans was made recently for the Robertsons, and showed a need for a speedy transportation service to the South, they say.

The Robertsons started the present St. Louis-Chicago air mail service, selling their original company to the Universal Aviation Corporation several years ago.

Airplane service on a weekly schedule was operated between St. Louis and New Orleans for a short time last year by a New Orleans concern.

$5000 FIRE ON OLIVE STREET

Fireman's Arm Cut by Glass in Building at 4125.

Fire from an undetermined cause on the second floor of a building at 4125 Olive street, occupied by the Tucker Upholstering Co., resulted in damage estimated at $5000, at 3:54 a. m. today. Traffic was tied up. A fireman, John Schwieder, 38 years old, 4561A Oakland avenue, member of Engine Co. No. 50, was handling a hose line on the second floor when a skylight above him broke from the heat and the glass cut several veins in his right arm. He was treated at St. John's Hospital and taken home.

A fire last midnight in a garage in the rear of 3955 California avenue caused $650 damage to the building and two automobiles.

Winnipeg Ice Gorge Broken.

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 12.—All flood danger to suburban Winnipeg disappeared today with the dynamiting of a huge ice blockade in the Assiniboine River. Hundreds of acres of farm land had been inundated the last two days, but immediately after the breaking of the gorge river points reported a steady receding of the swollen stream.

MRS. RUTH M'CORMICK, DRY, HAS 'NO REASON TO CHANGE'

After Interview With Hoover She Declares She Will Have Plenty to Say on Prohibition.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the Republican nominee for Senator from Illinois, will run for that office as a dry.

A question concerning the anti-prohibition stand of her Democratic opponent, former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, elicited the response:

"I have always been dry and there is no reason to change."

She promised that she would have "plenty to say" on prohibition when the campaign gets into full swing.

Mrs. McCormick was interviewed early last evening after she had engaged in a long conference with President Hoover. She said she was "entirely with the President on his law enforcement program," but that they had "most amicably agreed to disagree" on the question of American adherence to the World Court.

FIRST MAN TO BE TRIED HERE UNDER JONES LAW ACQUITTED

Charles White, Carpenter, Found Not Guilty of Possession and Sale of Liquor.

The first case to go to trial under the Jones law in the St. Louis district resulted in an acquittal yesterday when Charles White, 52 years old, 2614 North Ninth street, was found not guilty of charges of sale and possession of liquor by a jury in Federal Judge Davis' court.

White, a car carpenter, was arrested Nov. 9. At the trial, prohibition agents testified they purchased home brewed beer from him twice within the week preceding his arrest. Testifying in his own defense, White declared he had refused to accept money for the beer but had given the agents some home brew from the stock of his landlady at the North Ninth street address. The jury deliberated 20 minutes.

George Steffen, a bond salesman, who had said upon examination for jury service that he had contributed to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was foreman of the jury. Herman Richter, former saloon keeper, who was on the panel examined, was challenged by the prosecution and excused. White was represented in the trial by Attorney Clark Clifford.

ILLINOIS MINERS WOULD CITE LEWIS FOR CONTEMPT

Charge National Head of Organization Offended in Setting Up Provisional Unions.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 12.—A citation for contempt of court was asked here late yesterday afternoon against John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and 12 of his supporters in this State, by attorneys for District 12 (Illinois) of the United Mine Workers.

The officers of the Illinois miners charge that, by setting up a provisional government in this State, Lewis violated an injunction issued by Judge Norman L. Jones here last October. The injunction, which was upheld by the Appellate Court last week, restrains Lewis from setting up a provisional government or in any other manner interfering with the affairs of the Illinois district.

Among those named in the injunction with Lewis, are Frank Hefferly, provisional president; Joseph P. Goett, provisional vice president, and John T. Jones, provisional secretary-treasurer.

The provisional officers declared today that since the injunction was issued the status of the Illinois union had been changed and that the terms of the injunction have not been violated.

JEWS SEIZE SYNAGOGUE FROM RUSSIAN COMMUNISTS

Worshipers Say Dubrovna Soviet Took Temple in Violation of Stalin's Decree.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 12.—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency said yesterday that Jews of Dubrovna (Minsk region) had taken over their confiscated synagogue and barred a Communist club from it. Their action was unprecedented in Russia since the revolution, the agency said.

The Jews asked the chairman of the local Soviet to return the synagogue, which had been converted into a Communist club against the wishes of the worshipers and without the knowledge of the Soviet Central Executive Committee. In this they were encouraged by the recent order of Joseph Stalin, head of the Communist party, that no place of worship should be converted unless a majority of those concerned and the Central Executive Committee sanctioned it.

When the local chairman refused the request, the Jews went to the synagogue, removed the Communist lock and put on their own lock. Members of the Communist Club arrived to learn they could not enter. The Jews said they felt Stalin's order made their action legal, and they intend to reopen the synagogue for Passover services.

Singer Divorces Philosopher.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 12.—Mrs. Flora Stenhouse Caldwell, former opera singer, obtained a divorce from Mackey Caldwell, English writer and philosopher, yesterday on ground of desertion. They were married in Santa Ana, Cal., in 1926 and separated in 1927. Mrs. Caldwell said her husband accused her of offering him "at best but bondage" and that he left her in Munich, Germany, during a world tour.

ACTRESS ON STAND IN TRIAL FOR EXTORTION

Olga Edwards Tells of Affair With N. L. Amster, New York Financier.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Olga Edwards began her testimony yesterday in her trial for extorting money from Nathan L. Amster, financier. She told of her first meeting with Amster in 1917, when, she said, she came to New York from her home in California to pursue a theatrical career.

Amster, she said, was described to her as a man who could aid her in realizing her stage ambitions. She said she met him at a place on West Seventy-first street.

"We were served champagne," she testified. "Yes, I drank some. I had drunk liquor before in California, but not champagne. He made love to me."

She said she met him later the same day, the next day and a week later when he returned from a trip to Boston. Amster did not tell her his business, she said, but she thought he was in theatrical work.

Miss Edwards' testimony was interrupted to permit two attorneys to testify concerning the contract they drew for her under which Amster agreed to establish a $100,000 trust fund for the support and the education of her son, Lee, whose father she says is Amster.

Miss Lyle Stackpole, a show girl, and her mother, Mrs. H. C. Stackpole, testified before the State rested that Miss Edwards had threatened to declare that Miss Stackpole was a companion of Amster unless they testified that Amster was the father of Miss Edwards' son.

Miss Edwards was arrested last November after she had accepted $500 in marked bills while detectives watched from an adjoining room.

$42,000,000 CUT IN RIVER AND HARBOR APPROPRIATION

House Committee Shaving Down Many Items at President's Request.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12. — A drastic scaling down of all river and harbor projects and allotments to be included in this year's omnibus bill has been undertaken by the House Rivers and Harbors Committee at the request of President Hoover.

Many items in the bill are being reduced in an effort to comply with a request made by the President to keep the amount as low as possible.

Although it had been expected that the measure would authorize the expenditure of more than $150,000,000, a compilation today showed it had been reduced so far to about $108,000,000. Several other projects, however, including the $27,000,000 Erie Canal proposal, are yet to be considered.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY BILL

Measure Affecting Thousand Islands Section Introduced.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Navigation improvement and power development in the Thousand Islands section of the St. Lawrence River from Tibbet's Point on Lake Ontario to the towns of Ogdensburg, N. Y., and Prescott, Ontario, would be authorized under a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Chalmers (Rep.), Ohio.

The measure was based on the report of the Joint Board of Engineers of the St. Lawrence waterway project. It would provide that the improvements be subject to a "single international authority," and that the project be undertaken and worked out jointly and in cooperation with the Dominion of Canada, and that half the expenses be paid by the Dominion of Canada.

$15,000,000 for Missouri River.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The House Rivers and Harbors Committee last night approved an appropriation of $15,000,000 for the Missouri River, Kansas City to Sioux City, to be expended in the next three years.

THE NATIONAL CITY BANK
Joins the Enlarged
FRANKLIN-AMERICAN TRUST CO.

Capital and Surplus $4,000,000.00
Total Resources in Excess of $45,000,000.00

Less than two years ago we announced the formation of the Franklin-American Trust Co. —a combination, formed April 23rd 1928, of the Franklin Bank and the American Trust Co. with capital and surplus of $3,000,000.00 and total resources of $30,000,000.00. Now the National City Bank joins the merger, forming the Enlarged Franklin-American Trust Co. with capital and surplus of $4,000,000.00, total resources in excess of $45,000,000.00.

United under one name—united in location—united in strength and service the Franklin-American Trust Co. and the National City Bank feel that they can offer to their customers and to the people of St. Louis the greater facilities and the broader services of a larger financial organization.

In the enlarged institution the customers of both the National City Bank and the Franklin-American Trust Co., will find the same quality of service, the same personal treatment, to which they have been accustomed. They will find the same familiar faces of the men and women, who have served them as officers and employees in the past, in the combining banks.

Dinah Did Upset Takes Prince Georges Handicap

SQUAB AND FRUMPER WIN FOR WHITNEY

BOWIE, Md., April 12.—Dinah Did Upset won the Prince Georges Handicap here this afternoon, with Sandyford second and Inception third. The winner paid $20.20 for $2.

By the Associated Press.

BOWIE, Md., April 12. — H. P. Whitney's Squab, well played, was an easy victor in the opening event, a half-mile dash for 2-year-olds. Over Shady was second and Mary Enderly third. Tea Gown, Over Shady and Squab ran head and head for the first three furlongs, then Squab took lead and drawing away won by three lengths in the fast time of :47 4-5. The winner paid $6.90.

Teggman, under a good ride, accounted for the second event, a six furlong sprint. Cecelia Grob was second and Sambo G third. Apostle, who was well played, failed to show any speed and finished away back. This was not his race. Teggman went right to the front at the rise of the barrier and, leading all the way, won, driving, by one and one-half lengths. Cecelia Grob defeated Sambo G a like distance for the place. The winner paid $4.70.

Herb Ashby, paying $39.20 for a $2 ticket, was an easy winner of the third race, a mile and one furlong gallop for older horses. Fair Class was second and Main Sheet third.

Herb Ashby broke running and led all the way, winning easily by three lengths.

Another Whitney Winner.

Harry Payne Whitney scored a double when his Frumper proved best in the fourth race, a seven-furlong sprint. Red Briar was second and Trapland third. Zublene, the second choice, stopped badly and finished way out of it.

Theo. Rochester rushed to the front, while Robertson kept Frumper under restraint to the middle of the turn, where he sent the colt to the front. Frumper just breezed along and won galloping by four lengths. Red Briar beat Trapland half a length for the place. The time was 1:26.

Wray's Column

On Even Terms.

PROFESSIONAL betting figures place the Cardinals and Browns on even terms. For the spring series games the rivals are "4 to 5 and take your pick."

In the posted odds on the two pennant races, the local clubs are quoted at 12 to 1 against, and placed fourth in the list of probabilities.

The two games to be played here before the regular season opens will tell little of the relative abilities of the two clubs.

Not before six weeks of the season have elapsed will they have stabilized enough to give a solid indication just how they may be expected to finish.

There is some reason to believe that, without accidents, both teams will make a better fight in their respective league races than last year. New managers and some changes of personnel indicate this.

A Post-Season Series.

FANS, however, would like to see the two clubs meet at top strength in a five or seven game series. That could happen only at the season's end.

A post-season test was suggested late last season. The Browns were willing but the Cardinals thought lightly of the affair. If a 1930 post-season series were arranged now, played under National agreement rules, with major league umpires officiating and contested, simultaneously with the world series, perhaps it could be put across with profit to the players and entertainment for the fans.

Thumbs Down.

PRESIDENT FUCHS of the Braves suggested that the Cardinals were just spoofing when they talked about obtaining Pitcher Grimes. "Grimes will be a wonderful help to us —no chance to sell or trade him," the Braves boss declared.

* * *

Now that Grimes has joined the Braves, Tom Kearney will probably cut down the odds against Boston from 100-to-1 to 99¾-to-1.

Just Grief.

LADY LUCK let go both barrels and brought down two Cardinals with one report, yes-

Cambridge Crew, Steered By American, Defeats Oxford in Boat Race

By the Associated Press.

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 12.—Steered by a little American, Robert E. Swartwout of New York, Cambridge today swept to a two-length victory over Oxford in the eighty-second rowing of their historic boat race on the Thames.

It was the first time that an American had ever steered a shell in the famous event and also was the first time in many years that an American had earned a place in the Cambridge boat.

By today's victory Cambridge became one up on Oxford, breaking the tie of 40 victories each and one deadlock which had been entered on the rowing books ever since 1829 when the great event first was held.

It was a proud moment for the light blue of Cambridge as their shell swept ahead at the three-quarters mark after Oxford had been leading most of the way and then finished strongly in 19 minutes 9 seconds. The record for the race is 18 minutes 29 seconds, made by Oxford in 1911.

The historic event was witnessed by the usual huge throng lining both banks of the river and on craft along the racecourse, their spirits undampened by a light rain which came up before the race started.

It was raining hard as the race progressed and the riverside was black with umbrellas. The thousands along the route waited in the rain until the result was known and then down the river cheers rang out steadily as news of Cambridge's victory was relayed along the course.

It was one of the hardest fought races that these ancient rivals have ever rowed. Oxford had an advantage of the Surrey Station on the course, giving a shorter distance to row and slight protection from the wind, of which they took full advantage from the start. At the three-mile mark they had increased slightly their quarter-length lead, despite repeated spurts by the light blue crew.

Nearing Barnes Bridge, about three and one-half miles from the start, Cambridge made their supreme effort and gradually overhauled the dark blue, putting the nose of their boat three-quarters of a length ahead of their rivals as they went under the bridge. Thereafter it was comparatively easy going for Cambridge and, despite a game struggle on the part of the Oxford crew, the light blues rowed to the finishing post two lengths ahead of their rivals.

DEMPSEY OFFERS CARNERA $50,000 FOR GODFREY GO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 12. — Jack Dempsey has offered Messrs. Duffy and See, managers of Primo Carnera, $50,000 and a percentage of the gate, for an outdoor bout in Chicago some time this summer.

The former heavyweight champion, however, does not propose to meet the Italian himself, but has lined up George Godfrey, huge Negro from Leiperville, Pa., as Primo's opposition.

Tilden Defeats Coen in First Meeting Abroad

By the Associated Press.

JUAN LES PINES, France, April 12.—Bill Tilden consented to oppose his young friend and protege, Wilbur F. Coen Jr. of Kansas City, today, and defeated him in the final of the tennis tournament here by scores of 4—6, 6—1, 6—2, 6—3.

This marked the first time Tilden and Coen had played each other on the Riviera. At the recent St. Raphael tournament they reached the final, but canceled their match on the ground of their friendship, this action causing considerable criticism.

The first set today was apparently a present to Coen and the American champion easily won the next three.

In the women's singles, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, veteran American player now living in England, defeated Fraulein Cilly Aussem, Germany, 6—2, 7—5.

Pin Tourney Tonight.

An individual handicap contest will be held tonight and Sunday at Nick's Recreation Parlor, 5411 Virginia avenue. Squads will bowl Saturday at 8 o'clock and Sunday at 7 and 8:30 o'clock. All bowlers are eligible providing they have an established average of 12 games or more in league play. Reservations can be made by calling Riverside 9511.

KRESS MAKES THREE ERRORS IN INNING; HAINES BATTED OUT

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, April 12.—The Browns defeated the Cardinals this afternoon in the first game of the spring series.

The score was 13 to 8.

Some 15,000 viewed the game, which was a free-scoring affair. Lu Blue made the first hit, a single, and scored the first run in the opening inning.

The game:

FIRST INNING — CARDINALS —O'Rourke threw out Douthit. Adams grounded to Melillo. Frisch was out the same way.

BROWN AND EGGMANN MEET IN DISTRICT NET TOURNEY FINAL TONIGHT

CHAMPIONSHIPS IN DOUBLES AND MIXED DOUBLES WILL BE PLAYED

INDOOR TENNIS MATCHES TONIGHT

Men's singles final—7:30 p. m. Wray Brown vs. Teddy Eggmann.

Men's doubles final, 8:30 p. m. Brown and Eggman vs. Wiese and Steideman.

Mixed doubles final—9:30 p. m. Miss Millicent Endicott and Karl Kamman vs. Mrs. Virginia Ducker and Karl Hodge.

Place—Washington University Field House, Big Bend rd., near University car line.

Admission 75 cents and 40 cents.

By Davison Obear

Play in the fourth annual St. Louis District Indoor tennis championship will come to a close tonight at the Washington University Field House when the final round in the men's singles and doubles and mixed doubles will be decided. The tournament opened April 5 with an entry of 43 players in the singles, 17 teams in the men's double and 13 teams in the mixed doubles.

Teddy Eggmann, the present champion, will meet Wray Brown in the final round of the singles, which starts at 7:30 o'clock. Brown is favored to win, but Eggmann will no doubt put up a great battle as his game is particularly suited to indoor play. Brown is a former titleholder.

The doubles final will bring Wray Brown and Teddy Eggmann leading St. Louis team against Harold Wiese and Herbert Steideman, Washington University stars. This match should result in spectacular play with Brown and Eggmann favored to win. Wiese and Steideman have been playing excellent tennis all week and defeated Karl Kammann and Charles Barnes, the defending champions, in a third round match.

Win in Straight Sets.

In the mixed doubles final, Miss Melicent Endicott pairs with Karl Kammann to meet Mrs. Virginia Dueker and Karl Hodge at 9:30 p. m., the concluding match on the evening's program. The outcome of this affair is rather doubtful as both possess strong combinations.

Both matches in the men's singles semifinals last night resulted in straight set victories. Eggmann defeated Karl Hodge 6—2, 7—5 in one match, while Brown disposed of Herbert Steideman, 6—3, 6—1, in the other.

Point score of Eggmann-Hodge match:

First Set.

| | | | | | | | | | Pts. | G. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Eggmann | 5 | 5 | 4 | 6 | 6 | 2 | 6 | 9 | —43 | 6 |
| Hodge ... | 7 | 3 | 0 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 7 | —33 | 2 |

Second Set.

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | Pts. | G. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Eggm'n | 2 | 5 | 2 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 2 | 0 | 4 | 0 | 4 | 6 | —38— | 7 |
| Hodge . | 4 | 3 | 4 | 3 | 2 | 1 | 4 | 4 | 1 | 4 | 1 | 4 | —35 | 5 |

Recapitulation: Eggmann—Sets 2, games 13, points 81; Hodge—Sets 0, games 7, points 68.

A new record for continuous play in one set during a district indoor tournament was set when Wiese and Steideman took the first set from Sidney Smith and Herbert Weinstock, 19-17. Wiese and Steideman won the next set, 6—4, and the match. Karl Hodge and Edmund Serrano surprised by forcing Wray Brown and Teddy Eggmann to a three-set encounter before losing, 7—5, 5—7, 6—2.

The Installment Plan.

Ex-President Coolidge turned in his first installment of 75 words on his 500-word history of the United States, to be carved on the rocks in the Black Hills. He must be writing it in "short takes," as they say in the composing room.

"Yanks Bank on Pennock."

ONCE more the pilot of the Yanks,
On Brother Herbert Pennock banks.
But there might be a sinking craft
If Herb can't honor Shawkey's draft.

"House Group to Alter Muscle Shoals Bill."

No extra charge for alterations.

See where the World Court idea has been traced back to the fourteenth century. Maybe it originated in the Garden of Eden, where Adam did his courting.

"$2,500,000 Morgan Yacht Is Launched."

Sailing, sailing, over the ocean wide,
And many financial storms shall blow, but Pierp will stem the tide.

The only effect of a panic on Morgan is to make him build bigger and better yachts.

Probaby Edsell Ford could afford as big a yacht as Br'er Morgan, but he is willing to waive the question of parity in favor of peace.

By the bye, wonder whatever became of Henry's peace ship.

Speaking of yachts, see where the Park Commissioner intimates that unless autoists stop parking on Grand drive in Forest Park to watch the boys sailing their model boats, he may have to put a ban on the sport. Why not give the autoists a ticket and let the boys alone?

Have a Heart.

WHEN from his life they take the joy,
Our sympathies are with the boy;
He's hedged in by a flock of bans
That interfere with all his plans.
He can't play ball upon the street
Or eat the things he wants to eat.
The very things he likes to do
He soon discovers are taboo.

His every effort it would seem
To rid himself of excess steam
Is frowned upon by old kill-joys
Who can't remember they were boys.

No Argument.

See by the papers where Mr. Coolidge doesn't choose to seek public office again. And when Cal says he doesn't choose he means just that.

The weather man seems to be on his game this spring. He broke 92 which isn't bad for the 10th of April.

However, lest we forget, we had a heavy snowfall on the second of May last year.

According to an article in the Saturday Evening Post Ban Johnson can't see the present crop of pitchers. Ban's eyes have been troubling him for some time.

The census enumerators find that the question about owning a radio gives an opening for a good deal of airy persiflage.

Reed Drops Ruez.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—Eddie Reed, Philadelphia Negro, knocked out Manuel "Kid" Ruez of Mexico in the fifth round of the 10-round windup at the Cambria A. C. last night. Reed floored the Mexican four times. Reed weighed 135, Ruez 134½.

Crazy Coot, Whitney's Derby Hope, Ran 4 Races

CRAZY COOT.

OF ALL the host of contenders for the $50,000 rpize at Churchill Downs on May 17, none has more right to consideration on the grounds of breeding than H. P. Whitney's Crazy Coot.

This is one of a series of articles on Kentucky Derby eligibles and their records.

Sired by Mad Hatter, he has Fair Play for a granddaddy. And on the other side, with Ruth Law for a dam, he has Broomstick for his grandsire.

However, one needs something more tangible than good breeding to guide him in picking the Derby winner. And that's about all we have in this case for Crazy Coot was started only four times in his two-year-old career. True, he delivered a smashing performance in winning the National Stallion Stakes at Belmont on June 3. The track was sloppy and the field was large, 13 going to the post. Crazy Coot had 113 pounds up, including Jockey Robertson. Fortunately, he was off well and although he relinquished the lead just before turning into the stretch, he came fast undr a drive to nose out the speedy filly Keep On.

In only one of his four starts was he actually dull and that effort convinced his trainer, John Rowe Jr., that he needed a rest. There was no public announcement made of why he was taken out of training after he finished last in a field of 14 in the Hudson Stakes at Aqueduct. It is rather a certainty that he suffered no major ailment for Whitney is depending upon him in the big stakes of the spring in lieu of his great stablemates, Whichone and Boojum.

It will be interesting to see how Crazy Coot works in his Derby trials. With his superior breeding he will be given a lot of attention if he shows a few good moves.

N. B. A. REINSTATES REYNOLDS AS WELTER WRESTLING CHAMPION

CINCINNATI, O., April 12.—Stanley M. Isaacs, president of the National Boxing Association, yesterday announced the reinstatement of Jack Reynolds as champion of welterweight wrestlers in the 31 states in which the N. B. A. has jurisdiction.

Reynolds was censured for recently relinquishing his title a few weeks after winning it, and was told similar action in the future would result in life suspension.

EMMERICH WINS OVER BORICH IN AMATEUR BOUT

Johnny Emmerich, Knights of Columbus flyweight ace, had to travel at top speed to get the decision over Joe "Peanuts" Borich, local unattached star, in the feature of the Knights of Columbus amateur boxing program over in East St. Louis last night.

Better sharpshooting and the landing of a number of terrific rights to the body balanced the point scale of Judges William Walter and Walter Palmer and Referee Joe Keshner in favor of Emmerich in this scrap between "Simon Pure" champions. Borich recently won the Western A. A. U. bantam crown here while Emmerich took the flyweight honors in the Golden Glove tourney at Chicago and then defeated the captain of the New York team in an inter-city meet also staged at the Windy City.

Two other local Western A. A. U. 1930 monarchs triumphed in the other pair of specials. Elmer Perkinhorne, Railroad Y. M. C. A., 147-pound king, had to travel four slugging rounds to get the award over Gene Parkington, K. of C. fighter who won the Western A. A. U. 160-pound honors, but who trained down to the welter division. Joey Parks, unattached, feather champ, decisively defeated Frank Lansing, Litchfield, the latter taking a beating all the way but was game to the last.

Tom Bertrand, K. of C. lightweight, outpointed Elmer Willis, Gillespie; John Voke, K. of C. welterweight, gained a technical knockout in the third round over Herb Anderson, Gillespie, when the bout was stopped after the latter had been floored three times, and Jim Seagraves, K. of C. puncher, put Gus Porpisil, Belleville middleweight, to sleep in less than a minute of the first round to account for tht preliminary activities.

MOSTIL RETURNED TO TOLEDO BY GIANTS

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., April 12.—Johnny Mostil, former Chicago White Sox outfielder, was returned yesterday to the Toledo American Association club by the New York Giants. He was left behind when the Giants went on to Chicago after their exhibition game here.

Mostil, known as a "hard luck" player, was sent to Toledo by the White Sox last year. The Giants obtained him from the Mud Hens when Ed Roush became a holdout, but he suffered from a weak ankle all through the training season and failed to fill the hole in the New York outfield.

Roosevelt Track Team Victor in Triangular Meet

Roosevelt High School has additional reason today to believe that the track season will be a success after the convincing performance of its team yesterday afternoon in a triangular meet with McBride and Cleveland.

Roosevelt scored a total of 94 points, while McBride, which finished second, had only 27 points. Cleveland accounted for seven points.

Cardinals Consensus Choice For Fourth Place; Browns for Fifth in Vote of 65 Experts

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 12.—To support the theory that everybody loves a winner, the baseball experts have given the Chicago Cubs as big a vote of confidence in the forthcoming National League race as they did the Athletics in the American League scramble.

The results of the fourth annual Associated Press consensus, compiled today from the opinions of more than three-score major league baseball writers and sports editors, show an overwhelming majority satisfied to string along with the 1929 pennant winners.

Whereas 60 out of 65 named the Mackmen to win again, 54 out of 66 have gone on record as favoring the Cubs to repeat.

In the American League, the remaining five votes for first place went to the Yankees. In the National, the Pittsburg Pirates have nine votes for first place (all cast before Grimes was traded), while St. Louis gets two and the Giants one.

On the basis of the general balloting, the experts look for a much tighter race in the National League, with at least two formidable "dark horses" representing Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

Cards Picked for Fourth.

It took a pennant victory by the Cubs last year to finally make them favorites. Joe McCarthy's men were picked fifth in 1927 and finished fourth, selected for third position in 1928 and finished third. Named as runners-up to the Giants last year in a very close finish, the Bruins completely upset the dope by making it a runaway, while the Giants skidded down to third.

This is how the Associated Press consensus predicts each league's order of finish:

National — Chicago, Pittsburg, New York, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Boston.

American — Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago, Washington and Boston.

The Chicago Cubs, with the hitting and pitching they possess, appear to dominate their league in spite of infield accidents and uncertainties as to the condition of Bell and Hornsby. Meanwhile, the chances of the club picked to give them the toughest fight, Pittsburg, seem to have been hit by the release of Burleigh Grimes to Boston.

Several "Dark Horses."

Seldom have the experts been more at variance in picking the probable finish of the other clubs. New York and St. Louis are picked anywhere from first to seventh, Brooklyn from second to eighth, Philadelphia and Cincinnati each from third to eighth in the votes compiled by the Associated Press.

HOW EXPERTS VOTED

WRAY'S COLUMN

terday—Orsatti and Peel. That sounds like a lot of bad fortune; but there are other clubs around the circuit that face opening day with even worse hospital records.

Pittsburg's case is the saddest of all for, besides having Traynor and L. Waner unavailable through eye trouble and appendicitis, the team was forced to let go of Grimes—a potential 20-victory pitcher.

The Champion Athletics face a real setback, one that may cost the club heavily indeed—Al Simmons has been out of the lineup due to rheumatism. His loss alone would be sufficient to cost the Athletics 10 or a dozen games in the course of a year.

Ruth and Hornsby O K?

THE odds are better than even that both Ruth and Hornsby, the outstanding cripples of recent days, will be in the opening-day lineups; but it is equally certain both will not have sound props. The probabilities are that Ruth will have occasional leg trouble during the season, while Hornsby's heel is still a subject of discussion.

Hornsby and Ruth are young men, actually, but professionally approaching the sere and yellow. Injuries of any sort are not easily shaken off.

The Phillies are facing the loss of that fine young third baseman, Whitney. The Cubs will miss Lester Bell's hitting until his throwing arm recovers. Harry Rice of the Tigers is another casualty. Nearly every club is having hospital trouble.

It is rather unkind to speculate on another man's grief, but the fact is that the more important injuries have happened to the prominent flag contenders; and this may have an important bearing on the pennant races.

Balmy in the Belfry.

DOWN in Florida a freak motor boat and an automobile monstrosity are biding their time pending a test of speed. The motor boat builders hope to make 100 miles an hour; the driver of the motor car, which is such a freak that it has to be turned around by a corps of 25 mechanics, hopes to travel at 250 miles an hour.

Perfect water or track conditions must prevail before they can hope respectively to set a new speed mark. Also, freak constructions render the boat and the car alike unsuited to any practical purpose except advertising some motor or boat building firm.

A record is meaningless when the boat or car that sets the mark is so built as to be useless under normal conditions.

Nothing New.

THE world is still a bit balmy in the belfry over this record setting craze. But there's nothing new about freak ways of setting records. We may add there's seldom anything useful comes out of them. It has been many years since Capt. Webb set a record by going over Niagara in a barrel; but doing Niagara "a la Webb" has yet to be included in our popular tours.

Anderson—or was it Cooper—more than 25 years ago made approximately a mile a minute on a measured bicycle course, built between the rails of an East Side railroad track, and boosted the time for a bicycle mile by nearly a minute. But who cares? If one has to hire a special pacing locomotive and lay a hardwood floor between railroad track rails, the yearning to do a mile a minute naturally falls off to nothing.

Then there was the old days of the harness horses when Lou Dillon and Dan Patch were sent after the existing marks preceded by motor drawn sulkies with wind-breaking attachments.

The records are still there, but they are merely regarded as curiosities.

COUNTRY DAY STOPS RALLY AND DEFEATS PRINCIPIA NINE,, 5-4

Despite a three-run rally by Principia in the ninth inning, Country Day School's baseball team defeated the Cadets, 5 to 4, in the first ABC League game of the season, yesterday afternoon at Country Day. Klieforth, Country Day pitcher, was the star of the game, striking out 10 opponents and walking three.

C. B. C. BEATS ST. LOUIS U. HIGH IN PREP OPENER

Backing up the right-handed slants of John Duvic with a mid-season brand of baseball, the Christian Brothers' College nine opened the Prep League season with a 13-3 victory over St. Louis U. High at Forest Park yesterday. The winners got to Hansen, St. Louis' starting pitcher, in the opening innings, and ran up a lead which they had no difficulty in retaining. The Junior Billikens failed to show batting strength, being blanked in every frame except the sixth. In addition the team committed numerous costly miscues.

Extreme wildness on the part of Hansen cost the Blue and White three runs in the opening inning. The St. Louis hurler was unable to find the plate, walking the first two men to face him, and then, when he laid one across, McHenry smashed it into deep center field for the circuit, scoring behind Foley and McDonald. Hansen had another bad inning in the second, when a double, a home run by Russ Braudrick, a hit batter and three errors let four runs across.

Ed McCarty sent his starter to the showers in the third and replaced him with Tony Hummel, another right-hander. Hummel got a bad break at the very start when slow thinking by Stiebel, Junior Billiken catcher, prevented what should have been an easy out, and four more markers were scored before the Brothers were retired. Thereafter, Hummel settled down to pitch, and with the assistance of a new receiver, Fendler, held the winners to four scattered hits and two runs in four innings.

In winning his game with an excellent display, John Duvic gave promise of again being one of the outstanding pitchers in the league.

Otto Von Porat Arrives For Bout With De Mave, Whom He Once Kayoed

By W. J. McGoogan.

Otto von Porat, Norwegian boxer, ranked eighth among the heavyweights of the world, arrived yesterday to complete his training for his setto with Jack de Mave, New York, Tuesday night at the Coliseum.

It will not be the first meeting between the two, for May 10 last year Von Porat knocked out De Mave in two rounds in Chicago. As there has been no improvement in De Mave, according to the records, since that time, Jack having been knocked out by Big Boy Rawson and Young Stribling in his last two starts, it would seem that Von Porat has little to do but step into the ring at the Coliseum and repeat his performance of a year ago.

Takes De Mave Seriously.

Von Porat does not look at the bout in this way, however, for he says no heavyweight can be taken lightly. Otto, therefore, is planning serious training from now until Tuesday, and in fact put in his first work at the National Gymnasium yesterday afternoon. The big fellow indulged only in light exercises. Due to a mixup in arrangements, there were no sparring partners on the scene.

Von Porat started his boxing career in his native Norway as an amateur, journeyed to Paris to win the Olympic heavyweight title in 1924. He came to this country in 1926 to start his professional career.

Von Porat makes his home in Chicago with an aunt and says he has applied for citizenship papers there.

Since 1926, Von Porat has had 34 fights, winning 17 by knockouts, for an average of .500, winning seven otherwise, losing five and fighting five no-decision engagements. He suffered a technical knockout at the hands of Martin Burke in 1926 and has lost to Paulino twice, to Johnny Risko and to Phil Scott on a foul.

The memory of the Scott bout is a sore spot with Von Porat for it was probably due to that that he lost his chance to meet Sharkey at Miami last February. The big Norwegian claims that his foul against Scott could not possibly have hurt Phil and complains bitterly that perhaps 90 per cent of foul claims are invalid.

"I have been hit foul many times," Von Porat said, "but have never been hurt by such a punch and I don't see why anyone should be more sensitive than I am. The protecting devices used by boxers of today make it very difficult for them to suffer seriously from an ordinary foul punch. Chuck Wiggins hit me low several times in our bout in Chicago but I never felt any of the punches and did not claim a foul. The referee stopped the bout."

Von Porat is 26 years old, 6 feet, 4 inches tall. His weight in his last bout, that with Angus Snyder recently, was 205 pounds, the most he has ever weighed in the ring. He is a rather good-looking chap with a prominent chin which seems to invite a punch. It is said that he has been hit on the chin several times but nobody has ever been able to knock him out. He has a reputation for being a game boxer.

De Mave's Record Unconvincing.

De Mave, Von Porat's opponent Tuesday, also is a young man but his record is in striking contrast to that of Von Porat. The record book gives de Mave's birthplace as Amsterdam, Holland, but he told a Post-Dispatch reporter on the occasion of his last visit to St. Louis when he fought Chuck Wiggins in 1925, that he had been born and reared in New York.

De Mave started his professional career in 1922 and compiled a good record up to last year. His first fight in 1929 was against Bud Gorman and it was a draw. Then he met Von Porat and was knocked out. He fought five more bouts after that last year and won only one of them. His last 1929 bout was against Big Boy Rawson and de Mave was knocked out in one round.

This year he has one bout so far, against Young Stribling in January and was knocked out in one round.

U. S. BIKE TEAM DROPS TO NINTH PLACE IN FRENCH 6-DAY RACE

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 12.—The American six-day bicycle racers, Harry Horan and Tony Beckman, dropped to ninth place this forenoon on points, but remained just one lap behind Buschenhagen and Richli, the leaders, and five other teams.

The leaders have covered 1536 miles at the end of the hundred and eighth hour, at an average of better than 14 miles an hour. Girardengo dropped out with stomach cramps at 9 p. m. Friday, leaving his partner, Linari, still grinding.

BEAUMONT TRACK TEAM VICTOR IN TRIANGULAR MEET

Beaumont, after having won the junior division of the triangular meet with Kirkwood and St. Charles by a convincing score, continued its fast pace in the senior division and won by an even greater margin. Beaumont took first with 84 points, while Kirkwood nosed out St. Charles by one point, 37-36.

Duggins was the high point man of the meet, scoring three firsts and a second for 18 points. He won the 220 low hurdles, the broad and high jumps and was second in the 120 high hurdles. Gerst, also of Beaumont, was next with 12½ markers. He won the 100, 220 and tied for second in the broad jump. He ran the 100 in the fast time of 10.4 seconds. Liberty was high point man for Kirkwood, scoring nine points. Wallenbrock won the pole vault at the excellent height of 11 feet.

EX-BODYGUARD OF JUDGE WITNESS AT SEWER INQUIRY

P. H. McAvoy Denies He Discussed Naming of Supervisor With Circuit Court Jurist.

APPOINTMENT WENT TO WILLIAM F. HECHT

He Now Is Manager for Cemetery Association of Which McAvoy Formerly Was Sales Director.

P. H. McAvoy, former bodyguard for Circuit Judge Mulloy of St. Louis County, was questioned about his relations with the Judge and with Charles C. Keck, former engineer for the St. Ferdinand Sewer District, in a deposition at Clayton yesterday in the suit of taxpayers to enjoin sewer construction in the Overland Sewer District.

McAvoy is defendant in a suit to collect $9803, filed by Keck last January. He had denied having had any dealings with Keck, upon filing of the suit, and Keck has refused to explain the basis of the action. Until about the time the suit was filed McAvoy was sales manager for the Mount Lebanon Cemetery Association, of which the general manager is William F. Hecht, a former supervisor of the St. Ferdinand Sewer District.

Keck was a director of the cemetery association when McAvoy entered its employ in May, 1926, when he came from Philadelphia, McAvoy testified. McAvoy, who resides at 7249 Normandy place, Normandy, and is in the real estate and insurance business at 4539 Delmar boulevard, asserted that he had advanced money to Keck's engineering business and expected as a result to get 45 per cent of the profits, but received nothing.

Judge Mulloy, McAvoy related, granted a pro forma decree of incorporation to the cemetery association after McAvoy entered its employ. John E. Mooney, head of the Taxpayers' Protective Association, which is fighting the sewer districts, and attorney for the Overland taxpayers, asked McAvoy: "Did you receive $3500 expenses growing out of obtaining that decree?" "No," said McAvoy, "but I got a $3500 bonus for sales the year before."

Property owners, but not a majority, in the neighborhood of the cemetery at St. Charles and Brown roads, signed a petition against the cemetery, McAvoy admitted. He said he knew of no connection between the granting of the decree, the position of Hecht as manager of the association and the appointment of Hecht by Judge Mulloy as a sewer supervisor, and denied ever having discussed the naming of the supervisors with the Judge.

Denies Shakedown.

In 1928 Keck needed money to meet payrolls, McAvoy testified, and he advanced Keck about $6000, which, he averred, has not been repaid. There was no written contract, he said, but he was to get 45 per cent of the profits. It was McAvoy's part to seek business for Keck, he related, and he talked to Hecht about making Keck district engineer and also talked to the Wellston district supervisors, but Keck's bid for the latter place was unsuccessful.

"If Keck says you shook him down for money," asked Mooney, "what would you say?" "I'd say he was a colossal liar."

"If Keck says he gave you money to split with others is he still a collossal liar?" "I can't think of anything stronger to call him."

Guard for Judge Mulloy.

McAvoy declared, in answer to questions, that he first met Judge Mulloy at a dinner a "couple of years ago," and they used to be on good terms.

"Were you bodyguard for him?" Mooney inquired. "I guess you'd call it that. I had a gun and a badge from Chief of Police Gerk."

"How did you get the badge?" "I told Chief Gerk a lot of rummies in the county were trying to bump off Mulloy and the police in the county were incompetent to protect him, so I wanted to carry a gun to protect him."

Shots Fired at Judge.

McAvoy did not know what kind of badge it was, but thinks he has it still. He did not believe he needed a county badge. He said the Judge needed protection because he had been shot at a "dozen" times.

The Judge, who was running for election in 1928, had been free in his charges against criminal elements in the county. McAvoy related that he was with the Judge several times when shots were fired at him, including one time early in the summer of 1928 when two automobiles seemingly tried to block the way of a machine in which McAvoy was driving the Judge home from a meeting. On that occasion, McAvoy said, he speeded up to 70 miles an hour and barely passed between the cars as two shots were fired. The Judge had a revolver then but didn't return the fire, the witness said. On several other times McAvoy returned fire, he declared.

His services as the Judge's bodyguard ceased about January or February, 1929, after a disagreement, McAvoy related. He told of a dinner given in honor of Judge Mulloy in 1928, when a gold watch was presented to the jurist. McAvoy said he had collected money for the watch but no one gave as much as $100. Among those at dinner, McAvoy asserted, were a number of sewer district supervisors.

Verne Lacy was present at the deposition as counsel for McAvoy, who is not a party to the injunction suit. As they departed, a Deputy Sheriff replevined McAvoy's automobile, in connection with charges made against McAvoy by the Wellston Motor Co. of disposing of mortgaged property for alleged failure to meet payments on the car.

TOWN OF 5000 DWINDLES TO 76

Census Figures Given for Pershing, Ok., Once an Oil Center.

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., April 12.—Once a thriving oil town, Pershing, Ok., now has a population of 76, Marion B. Flesher, census supervisor, announced yesterday.

Founded at the close of the World War, the town in the Wooster Mound oil district of Osage County was named after the commander of America's expeditionary forces. With a population of 891 in 1920, it grew rapidly, becoming an enterprising city of 5000 that prepared for continued growth by voting several bond issues.

COMPROMISE ON TOBACCO RATES BY CONFEREES

Senate Group Agrees to Advance Them About Half the Amount That the House Desired.

DUTY INCREASED ON COTTON PRODUCTS

Present Rate on Thread Restored — Cotton, Flax, Hemp and Jute Schedules Completed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—A compromise providing increases in duties on wrapper tobacco was reached today by the conferees on the tariff bill.

The duty on unstemmed wrapper tobacco was fixed at $2.27½ a pound, as against $2.10 now in effect, and that on stemmed wrapper was placed at $2.92½, as compared with $2.75, as at present.

The increase of 17½ cents a pound in each instance means that the Senate group met the House conferees' proposals virtually half way. The House bill provided an increase of 40 cents a pound in both levies, while the Senate measure restored present rates.

An additional levy of 10 cents a pound on all goods, except rags, made from long staple cotton, was agreed upon today by the conferees, completing action of the cotton and flax, hemp and jute schedules.

The increase in the rate on the long staple products was proposed in the Senate bill to compensate for the tariff of 7 cents a pound on raw cotton 1⅛ inches staple and over, which is now on the free list.

The conferees accepted the Senate provision restoring the present rate of one-half of one cent a hundred yards of cotton sewing thread and also the Senate amendment providing that no plain cotton cloth containing yarns averaging above No. 90 shall be dutiable at less than 51-100ths of one cent per average number per pound.

The conferees have reached complete agreement on the controversal wool schedule, in most cases upholding the higher rates written into the bill by the Senate.

The rates approved by both branches of Congress were, in most cases increases over those of the existing law and in many instances the Senate rates were higher than those of the House.

The principal increases accepted were on wool waste and wool rags. The House, however, scored a victory in obtaining approval of its rate on 40 cents a pound and 70 per cent ad valorem on wool felt hat bodies with 25 cents additional on each article of trimmed bodies and finished felt hats. The Senate had approved a rate of 33 cents a pound and 50 per cent advalorm.

On imported wool rags the rate voted was 18 cents a pound, that approved, by the Senate, in comparison with the House rate of eight cents.

A new sub-section was added to the schedule providing a decreased rate on wools that go into the manufacture of cheap clothing and sometimes carpets.

In the agricultural schedule, the conferees eliminated Senate increases in the duty frozen and dried eggs and accepted the House rate of 18 cents a pound.

EFFORT TO REMOVE ALIENS FROM CHICAGO OFFICIAL JOBS

Veterans of Foreign Wars Point Out 11,000 Wounded Veterans Are Idle.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 12.—An effort to drive all aliens from city, county and sanitary district jobs was started last night by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"There are 11,000 wounded war veterans in Chicago with families who are unable to find work," said Vice Commissioner Charles D. Bradley. "The situation has reached a climax. We are going to do what was done in Detroit last month. There all noncitizens were discharged from the automobile trades and city jobs and their places were filled with ex-service men and citizens.

"We will draw up petitions to be presented to city officials, to the county board, and to the sanitary district calling on them to discharge all those employes who are not citizens and give the jobs to service men."

FOUND ON STREET SUFFERING WITH FRACTURE OF SKULL

Boilermaker Who Had Been Knocked Down, Unable to Tell How He Was Hurt.

Abner Hansard, 37 years old, a boilermaker, 2411 Dickson street, was found suffering from a skull fracture and alcoholism at Second and Spruce streets at 9:40 o'clock last night.

Removed to City Hospital, he said he had been drinking and did not know how he was injured. Police were informed that Hansard was struck and knocked down by a man with whom he had been talking. Hansard's automobile was found parked at Main and Gratiot streets.

30 INDICTED IN OKLAHOMA FOR SALE OF JAMAICA GINGER

Several Pharmacists and One Officer of National Drug Concern Among Them.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., April 12.—An officer of one national drug distribution firm, thought to have headquarters in Kansas City, and several Oklahoma city druggists were indicted by the Federal grand jury yesterday for illegal sale of Jamaica ginger, thought to be responsible for the paralysis-like malady from which more than 300 Oklahomans have suffered.

Names of the persons were withheld by Roy St. Lewis, United States District Attorney, until arrests have been made. Thirty persons were indicted, it was disclosed.

W. O. Gordon, former Assistant State Attorney-General, was indicted for extortion in connection with the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy trial, and C. L. Thoroughman, former Minister and prohibition officer, was indicted for conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition laws. Thoroughman was arrested recently in a raid on a still near Lawton, Ok.

BORAH CALLS FOR DEBENTURE OR REDUCTION OF TARIFF

In West Virginia Speech Senator Says Repudiation of Plan Would Break Party Pledges.

By the Associated Press.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., April 12.—Taking issue with President Hoover over the export debenture plan of farm relief, Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, said last night that if this provision was taken from the tariff bill it would "break the solemn pledges made by both parties" to restore equality to agriculture.

"This debenture contest will determine for a time at least," Borah told a meeting of the Martinsburg Fruit Exchange, "whether those in power are willing to adjust our tariff system so that it will apply to all."

The debenture plan was put into the tariff bill by the Senate coalition of Western Republican Independents and Democrats over the expressed opposition of President Hoover. The same coalition twice voted it into the Hoover farm measure, but it was finally rejected. The provision is a subject of dispute now between Senate and House conferees on the tariff.

"If the beneficiaries of the protective tariff system cannot reconcile themselves to a debenture for agriculture," said Borah, "there is another way by which we can do something toward restoring equality between industry and agriculture. We can reduce some of the unconscionable rates which now enable industry to charge exorbitant prices for what the farmer has to pay. Such a course would be, in my judgment, more helpful to agriculture than the debenture itself."

RAILROAD GETS TAX INJUNCTION AGAINST 53 ILLINOIS COUNTIES

Order Obtained by Illinois Central Prevents Collection of More Than 50 Pct. of Levy.

By the Associated Press.

DANVILLE, Ill., April 12.—A temporary injunction was granted the Illinois Central Railroad Co. yesterday to prevent tax collectors in 53 Illinois counties from collecting more than 50 per cent of the tax assessed in the counties through which the railroad passes.

Application for the injunction was filed with a suit against the tax collectors in March.

The Champaign County States' Attorney was chairman, and W. J. Knight of Rockford, secretary of a committee of attorneys representing the counties. The other members were. Fletcher Lewis, Jackson County; F. J. Techlenburg, St. Claire; John Evans, Macon; H. E. Fullenwider, Sangamon, and Chauncey Reed, Dupage.

CHILD, 3, BURNS TO DEATH

Grandfather Injured in Attempting Rescue at Columbia, Ill.

COLUMBIA, Ill., April 12.—Silas Reddick, 70 years old, is in a critical condition as a result of burns suffered Thursday when he attempted to save his 3-year-old grandson, Harold McPheeters, who was burned to death when a can of gasoline in a shed exploded.

Mrs. William McPheeters, mother of the boy, saw the flames and called E. C. Mayhew, who was passing by. Reddick had already entered the shed. As Mayhew was about to enter the shed the gasoline can exploded, blowing the building down.

EX-POLICE CHIEF INDICTED

Alleged to Have Taken Bootleggers' Bribes at Marshalltown, Ia.

By the Associated Press.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., April 11. —J. F. Glasco, former Chief of Police, and his former lieutenant, C. E. Whalen, have been indicted for accepting money from bootleggers for protection in the delivery and transportation of liquor to and through Marshalltown.

Glasco is held at Montpelier, Vt., where he was arrested on a telegraphic warrant to await the arrival of Sheriff C. E. Wicklund, State Agent A. E. Nugent and County Attorney Joe B. Tye, who left today.

Gasoline Prices Up 1 Cent.

The price of gasoline at St. Louis filling stations increased from 16.9 cents a gallon to 17.9 cents today. The price includes State and city taxes. For high test gasoline, which sells for 3 cents a gallon more than the ordinary product, the 1-cent increase was effective also. Standard Oil Co. of Indiana executives said the advance was due to an increase in the cost of crude oil and "increased firmness of the gasoline market due to changed competitive conditions."

TWO KILLINGS IN DAY LAID TO GANG FEUD

Beer Runner and a Friend Found Slain in Different Towns in New Jersey.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 12.—His hands tied behind his back with cord and with five bullet wounds in his neck and chest, George Miller, 30 years old, of Tea Neck, N. J., was found dead last night in his automobile in Newark.

Police linked his murder with the fatal machine gun attack on Archie Senville, former pugilist and friend of Miller, in Garfield, N. J., earlier in the day.

Miller's body was found by Mary Sommodi, 12 years old, who was passing the parked car and saw the body through the opened door. The body was on the floor at the rear of the car, the head resting on the back seat and the doubled legs jammed against the back of the driver's seat.

The fact that there was sawdust on Miller's vest and that there were no bullet holes in the car or in his coat indicated that he had been shot down while he stood helpless in a New Jersey saloon with a sawdust covered floor, and that his body was carried to Newark. Four men were held as suspects in the case, but their names are withheld by police.

Senville had long been identified with beer running, police say, and Miller's murder is attributed to a gang feud.

JUDGE RUTLEDGE REBUKES LAWYERS FOR BEING TARDY

Three Jury Courts Idle Because Attorneys Answered Ready, Then Disappeared.

Presiding Judge Rutledge of the Circuit Court yesterday expressed from the bench his disapproval of lawyers being either tardy or absent when their cases could have been assigned for trial. At the time 10 damage suits were on the docket in which earlier in the day counsel had announced ready, with three jury courts waiting for business. However, as lawyers either for one side or the other were not present the courts stood idle from 11:30 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Later when counsel appeared they explained they thought it was safe to leave for the time being owing to their positions on the docket.

Judge Rutledge informed them it was their duty to at least remain within call to avoid risk of suffering indefinite continuances.

Bridge Bills Passed by Senate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—A House bill to extend for one year the time for beginning construction of a bridge across Missouri River at Washington, Mo., was passed by the Senate yesterday. The Senate also passed the House bill to permit C. N. Jenks and others to build a bridge over the the Mississippi River at Savanna, Ill.

TWO CHILDREN IN HOSPITAL AFTER EATING MOTHBALLS

Boy, 9 Years Old, and Sister, 6, Mistook Them for Candy.

Having mistaken mothballs for candy, Carl Murphy, 9 years old, and his sister, Earman Murphy, 6, are in City Hospital, suffering from intestinal disorders.

Carl, Earman and another sister, Opal May, 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Murphy, 3509 South Second street, were playing Monday with a child who carried a handful of mothballs from her home. Carl ate one and cut up another, giving half to each of his two sisters. Earman ate her half, but Opal's was taken away by another playmate after she had only licked it.

The three Murphy children became ill and were treated at home until yesterday, when hospital treatment was advised for Carl and Earman.

Plane Alights in River.

An amphibian plane alighted in the Mississippi River near Eads Bridge yesterday afternoon to permit six passengers to get aboard for a flight to Chicago. The plane, owned by the Northern Illinois Public Service Co., was flown here yesterday morning to pick up officers of the company, who were in St. Louis. After landing on the water, Pilot Caperton taxied the craft on the levee.

CHAPTER VI.

AS RUDY'S fame as screen artist grew—and grew by leaps and bounds—quite naturally he wished to share the fat box office profits through increased salary. But this privilege was denied him—at least for several years.

Of course, it was largely his own fault. As I have already explained he knew absolutely nothing about business nor how to manage his affairs. At the age of 25 years he had had no more interest in, or understanding of finance, than at the age of 25 days. It wasn't his fault; he was born that way. So it wasn't strange his producers were quick to take advantage of his weakness.

Rudy alone they could manage exactly as they chose, but when I undertook to look after him, as I did from the start, they had someone else to reckon with. Consequently I was as popular with his producers as a hornet's nest.

The following incident is typical:

After "The Conquering Power," Rudy left Metro to make "The Shiek" for Famous Players-Lasky; and no one who remembers Rudy need be told how successful "The Shiek" was. Yet when they offered him another contract it was at the same old salary. They recognized his ability but weren't willing to pay for it.

The new contract was a flattering one—in everything but salary. It involved the making of two pictures—"Moran of the Lady Letty," supporting Dorothy Dalton, and "Beyond the Rocks," starring Gloria Swanson. But Rudy's salary, as I remember it, was only $500 and, knowing he was worth much more, I suggested the following plan:

It happened that Madame Nazimova was going to New York on business and taking me with her. I suggested to Rudy that he go East with us and discuss the contract with Famous Players in their New York office before signing up with them. I explained that if he told Famous Players he had been sent East by a rival company, he could make a better bargain with them than by signing up then in the Western office.

Stars on the coast were always kept in ignorance of box office profits, while in New York they knew their value and could make better terms.

Rudy agreed it was a splendid idea and I warned him that, before leaving, he must not go near Famous Players' office.

By borrowing every dollar we could and leaving the family jewels on an extended loan to "Uncle," between us we managed to scrape up the money for his New York expenses.

The Eastbound train left at noon, but as the hour drew near I missed Rudy. Where was he? I grew worried, particularly when I discovered he wasn't at the station. But just as the train was pulling out he swung aboard, shouting triumphantly:

"We've got plenty of money now for this trip! I've just signed the contract."

I gasped incredulously; Rudy proceeded to explain. That very morning Mr. Lasky, who had heard Rudy was leaving for New York, had phoned him to stop at the office on his way to the train. Without a word to me, he had done so, and, in a moment of cold feet lest he lose out altogether, had signed up at the original figure.

Thrilled to Love Nest

"But, Rudy!" I cried in exasperation, "you could have signed the self-same contract in New York if our plan fell through! Why did you do it?"

But Rudy refused to have any regrets. He gave me his usual answer:

"Well, I did the best I could, didn't I?"

And so the trip East was purposeless.

That autumn, 1921, Rudy and I decided to buy the little house on Wedgwood drive, Whitely Heights, that was to be our first real home together. We had no definite plans except that we hoped to be married in the spring. By that time we felt sure his divorce from Jean Acker would be granted and all would be well.

The cash paid down on the purchase was almost more than we could scrape together, but somehow or other we managed it and agreed to worry about furniture later. We could sit on the floor and eat off the stove. For the moment we were deliriously happy.

At that time a friend of Rudy's was also living on Whitely Heights, just a few doors down the hill from our house, so it was arranged that Rudy would temporarily share his friend's apartment, and I would move to the new house right away. That way he could be near me and we could continue to have meals together.

One thing at least was definite—we would have Christmas together in our new home.

What little furniture I had at the bungalow was carted up the hill, with light baggage and high hopes I moved in just two days before Christmas.

Poor, Joyous Christmas

It is well we were young and enthusiastic, for the initial outlook was dreary—no gas, no hot water, no heat of any kind, bare rooms, blank walls, empty spaces. The only furniture in the living room was one chair and a Christmas tree. But how we decorated that tree! And what fun we had doing it! We behaved like a couple of children; we were both little else at the time.

On either side of the mantle hung a stocking, mysteriously bulgy; holly wreaths hung in all the windows; wherever a piece of furniture should have been we stuck up some symbol of Santa Claus. Christmas dinner we cooked on an electric grill. We could have used more burners—but never was there such a meal!

At midnight we were to open the presents, but just before the witching hour, after every candle on the tree was lit, Rudy seized me by the arm and dragged me upstairs, thrust me into my bedroom, saying:

"Don't you dare move until I call you!"

I heard him bang the outside door and race madly up the hill. What under the sun was he up to? Ten long minutes passed, then the door banged again. It was more than my curiosity could stand.

"I'm coming down!" I sang out.

No answer. Dead silence. Then a tiny bark, which sent me flying down stairs, orders or no orders.

The head of a silky Pekingese pup and a pair of tiny paws was peeping over the top of my stocking, while Rudy stood mischievously by. I screamed with delight and squeezed them both—and that is how little Chuckie became a member of our family.

We opened the packages, laughed and cried, played with the Christmas puppy until the candles on the tree burned out—which meant that Christmas was over.

It was our first and, incidentally, our happiest Christmas together.

Loved Bull Fight Part.

After the holidays Rudy started work on "Blood and Sand," his first starring picture under his new contract with Famous Players. June Mathis had adapted the story for the screen and made it a wonderful script. No one ever understood or wrote for Rudy as she did. Her version of "The Four Horsemen" had given him his first big chance, and now she wrote for him the role which to me was the greatest thing he ever did.

Of all the characters Rudy ever played, I know he loved most of all Juan Gallardo, the toreador.

With the thoroughness that characterized all his acting, he prepared himself for the part. He read Spanish history and books, studied Spanish pictures and costumes, until he was steeped in the atmosphere of the land that made the bull fight famous. He took lessons in bull fighting from a retired matador who later became his dresser, talked Spanish with him, learned every incident of this old toreador's past. Real toreador costumes and outfits complete were imported from Spain. Motion pictures of the corridas in Madrid and Seville, also Mexico City, were sent to the studio to study—and how Rudy ate them up!

Among them were films that showed the fights of . . . . ,famous Mexican toreador, who only a few months ago was killed, a great national favorite. Between this man and Rudy was a strong resemblance; they might have been blood brothers, and Rudy chose him as his model. In the picture he showed many of the man's identical gestures; everyone at the studio commented on this.

Meanwhile Rudy lived and moved in a world of his own creation. His existence at Rudolph Valentino ceased; he was Gallardo, the toreador.

Role Was Prophecy.

He grew sideburns, learned to walk like a toreador, even to eat like one. His table manners were boorish, his conversation blustering and rough. If ever a character came back to life it was Gallardo as lived by Rudy.

He and Gallardo had much in common. In fact, from birth to death there was a strange parallel between their lives. Both had simple beginnings, rose to quick fame and died at the height of their careers, spoiled by money and the adulations of women.

The Gallardio of Ibanez' story was a peasant, and while Rudy was not of peasant birth, he belonged to the poorer branch of a middle class Italian family, his father a veterinary surgeon in the little village of Castellenata, yet all his early interests were in things of the soil. He was educated to be a landscape gardener, and at the Royal Academy of Agriculture, which he attended as a lad, was praised for his splendid handling of the bulls.

At the time of this marriage Valentino's divorce from his first wife Jean Acker (shown in photograph on the right), had not become operative, and as a result charges of bigamy were advanced by California law officers.

From this obscurity, he, like Gallardo, was suddenly hurtled into success, with more money and fame and feminine flattery than any man could stand. A few years later—again like Gallardo—he died at the peak of success.

As I used to watch Rudy's faultless interpretation of this character, it often seemed like a dramatic prophecy of the very thing that would happen to him. So much so that at times it frightened me. It seemed as though Rudy was subconsciously interpreting his own life.

Subsequent happenings proved that this was true.

CHAPTER VII.

DURING the filming of "Blood and Sand" Rudy was granted his interlocutory decree of divorce from Jean Acker. It was handed down March 4, 1922—but accompanied by the discouraging announcement that the decree would not be final until March 4, 1923.

Rudy and I did not like this news. We did not choose to wait a year for our marriage, and the more we thought about it, the more foolish it seemed to do so. We knew so many people who had evaded this disagreeable law by crossing the line into Mexico for the civil ceremony there.

There were Dagmar Godowsky and Frank Mayo, who had married in Tijuana immediately after Mr. Mayo's divorce decree was given. And not only motion picture people, but others of the so-called saner world—bankers, politicians, business men—everybody was doing it. Why should Rudy and I wait?

Against the advice of our lawyer, Mr. Gilbert, we just decided we wouldn't. As soon as "Blood and Sand" was finished we would motor to Mexico and be married.

That is exactly what we did. It was such a wonderful wedding that we never regretted it, in spite of the rude awakening it brought and the long year of heartaches and agony.

I want to tell you about our wedding, for no one ever had one like it.

With the last scenes of Rudy's picture filmed, we set forth for a short vacation at Palm Springs, accompanied by Rudy's friend, Douglas Gerrard (known as Gerry, an Irish-English actor). Here we were the guests of Dr. White, a wonderful woman physician, a woman of middle age, with a heart of gold, one of our best friends in the world. For her charity practice Dr. White tended the native Indians and Mexicans of the Mohave desert.

With her snow-white hair knotted in a little bun, dressed in a linen riding habit, she was a familiar, much loved figure riding over the sands. Here in the midst of a grapefruit grove at Palm Springs, an oasis in the desert, Dr. White had two lovely little Spanish patios, one of which she was loaning to Rudy and me for our honeymoon.

After a brief rest at her home the four of us, Dr. White, Gerry, Rudy and I, motored to Mexicali, the little village which, as the name implies, sprawls across the border line between California and Mexico. Arriving in the early evening, Dr. White and I took rooms at a hotel on the California side, while Rudy and Gerry crossed the line to arrange with the Mexican mayor for our marriage next day.

Toward midnight the boys returned with the thrilling news that the Mayor insisted we be married at his own house at noon and would not take no for an answer. The marriage of such distinguished guests would be a festival, a gala occasion, a holiday for the whole village. We had not planned a celebration like this, But Dr. White said, "Let them have their fun!" and with amused resignation we agreed.

Anthem Special Honor

Next morning the Mayor, accompanied by the Chief of Police, called at our hotel to escort us to his home. We made a strange wedding party. We had driven miles over the desert in the grilling heat, planning to go through a brief ceremony and return to Palm Springs at once. I wore a yellow sports frock, a felt hat crushed over one eye; Rudy was in riding breeches and a soiled khaki shirt; Dr. White in the riding habit in which she looked so much like a man, and Gerry in the English-cut clothes, which he wore with an Irish swagger.

The Mayor lived in a small frame house set in a withered garden, upon which the sun poured down that day with the heat of molten lava. As we approached it down the hot, dusty road a mighty volume of music burst forth. When we looked at the Mayor in bewilderment he explained with visible pride that it was the Mexican national anthem played by the military brass band in his garden. He had wired the Governor for permission to play that sacred anthem in our honor.

The tiny room where the ceremony took place was filled to capacity with guests, relatives and friends of the Mayor, resplendent in their Sunday best. All the rest of the village hung over the fence, held back by the village constable. Everyone was chattering Mexican, of which I understood very little, until the place was a babble of sound and a hades of heat.

At high noon the ceremony began, read in voluble Spanish by the magistrate from an enormous book. It lasted for over an hour, while the suffering bride and bridegroom were supported by four witnesses; the Mayor and Chief of Police behind Rudy, Dr. White and Gerry behind me.

Rudy Forgets Ring

My own Spanish was wobbly and halting; Rudy's fortunately, was fluent. When it came to the "I will's" and "do's" of the ceremony the questions must first be translated into English for me, then answered in my uncertain Spanish. When the magistrate sang out the Spanist equivalent of "With this ring I thee wed," Rudy gasped and looked at me helplessly. We had never thought of a ring! But Dr. White met this crisis by offering me her own.

So the knot was tied and the grueling ceremony over.

Immediately everyone embraced everyone else. With true Latin fervor, the Mayor and Chief of Police kissed each other on both cheeks, and this fond salute was extended not only to the bride and groom, but to Dr. White, Gerry, the magistrate and most of the guests. We all fell warmly into each other's arms, and literally melted there.

At the close of this demonstration of affection the band struck up again and dozens of school children marched in to present us, each one, with a bouquet of wilted flowers, a sweet, very touching little tribute.

And now came the wedding feast. You may judge of its abundance and glory when I tell you it began at 2 o'clock and continued until 9 in the evening. I was told that many of the villagers had sat up all night preparing for it.

It was preceded by bowls of Mexican cordial, the specialty of the country, a drink as strong as vodka, so by the time we sat down at table, everybody was happy. Wilted collars and coats had long since been removed; Sunday finery looked bedraggled—but nobody cared, for champagne, wines and liquors flowed freely with each course. Even Dr. White, who never touched a drop of anything, however rare, was prevailed upon to fill up her glass. If she didn't, the Mayor would be offended.

The removal of each course was the occasion for more embracings and speeches in every language. It made no difference whether anyone understood a word or not—each speech was greeted with cheers and hurrahs. The music by now was augmented by a stringed orchestra on the front porch. The brass band was kept out in the garden. At closer range it would have burst our ears.

Rudy had provided wine and beer for the musicians and, in token of their gratitude, they never stopped playing for a moment. They played the national anthem of every country represented—Mexican, Spanish, Italian, American. But they didn't know "The Wearing of the Green," so Gerry, feeling the Emerald isle must not be neglected, got up and danced an Irish jig.

Yes, it was a wonderful wedding. I shall always love the Mexican people for the happiness they gave us that day. Nothing was too much for them to do. When at 9 o'clock we tore ourselves away, everyone wept at our departure as though bidding farewell to lifelong friends and the Mayor and Chief of Police escorted us back to our hotel vowing eternal love and friendship.

We motored back to Palm Springs that night, arriving, toward dawn, dirty, bedriggled and exhausted, after a perilous drive in which Rudy, at the wheel, went like the wind, as usual. At t speed we hit a water dugout, s as one sometimes encounters the desert, which sent us hurtl to the roof of the car. Fortuna ly no necks were broken, tho Gerry suffered a twisted th and made such a fuss about that not until we reached h did we learn that Dr. White's h was badly cut.

Such was our beautiful wedd day.

Toward noon we were hap breakfasting in our charm honeymoon house when Rudy w frantically summoned to Hollyw by long distance telephone. J Mathis, calling from the stud announced the disrupting ne that a warrant was out for his a rest on a charge of bigamy!

Without even stopping to pa toothbrushes, we leaped into t car and drove back to Los A geles at breakneck speed. Here were met by our lawyer and all t officials of the studio, to be to this was not a practical joke b the unhappy truth.

The affair was a contemptib publicity stunt on the part of Di trict Attorney Keyes, who is no serving sentence in state's prison so I can tell the truth. M Keyes' own actions at that t were under investigation; he wa being grilled by the State for th very crimes of which he was lat convicted.

So, thinking to divert attenti from himself to someone mor prominent in the public eye, h chose this master stroke of maki a "test case" of Rudy's marriag His trumped up charge of biga against Rudy would raise a scre of excitement behind which Key himself might hide.

The "test case," however, wa dismissed after a police court hea ing in which dear Mr. Gilbert d fended us with his usual abilit and wit. On his advice I left im mediately for New York to join m mother.

The agony Rudy and I bot went through at this sudden an heart-rending parting can easil be imagined. Such was the tragi and immediate ending of all ou happy dreams.

A Romance of Some Folks Who Might Be In Your Own Office—Or Your Neighbor's

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

THE employes of the Eaton Advertising Agency, nine stories above Park Avenue, were fiercely loyal to their chief, and it was understandable when you knew Lawrence Eaton. However, when his secretary, Janet Andrews, developed a case of nerves, he was forced to grant her a week of absence, which later resulted in her being supplanted by bright-haired, vital, alive, young Anne Murdock.

Anne had ambitions beyond a suburban home with Ted O'Hara, who was on her own rung of the ladder. What she had seen of marriage had not endeared it to her, and she understood her sister Kathleen's ambition to go into the chorus. Of course, she told herself, she admired her employer, she admired him greatly, but that was all. Had Janet Andrews once reasoned in the same manner—"but that was all"?

Now Anne was working into an efficient successor to Janet, and had become so indispensable to the chief that she was taken to his home, where she undertook to do some detail work for Mrs. Eaton.

CHAPTER SIX.

PRESENTLY Linda came back, wearing a jade-green tea gown of chiffon velvet, severely cut, with only the fall of lace at throat and sleeves to soften it. She was smoking, and she looked radiant and happy.

"Was I too long?" she asked apologetically. "Did you find something to read?"

Anne nodded and indicated the book of short stories she held.

"I didn't get very far into it," she confessed, and explained: "I was admiring the room."

"It is nice," agreed Linda. "I like it a lot. Do you smoke?"

"Now and then; not often."

"Well, you're better off without it; you'll save your pretty skin," commented Linda. "And now"—she drew up a chair to the long library table and produced a typewritten list of names, envelopes, stamps and cards—"this is where I need your help."

She explained to Anne that these were appeals to be sent out in a charity drive for several hospitals.

"It's not hard," said Linda, "but volunteer workers are the supreme limit. Of course I could have sent this to you at the office, but I didn't want to take your time from your work. I thought you'd get through here more quickly and with fewer interruptions." She gave Anne the material and, after further instructions, led her to a small square room off the library where there were books and flowers and a desk with a portable typewriter.

"You can work here quietly," she said. "It is Mr. Eaton's workroom. He works here at night, to my despair. Now, I have a fitting. I'll be back later to see how you're coming on and we'll have tea."

She smiled and departed. Anne settled herself at the desk and looked after her employer's wife thoughtfully. She liked her. She had decided that at once. Yet, thought Anne oddly, for all her warmth of manner and natural good humor, you might be Linda's best friend and live beside her for 50 years and never get to know her well. She was so self-contained.

Anne could not imagine Mrs. Eaton staging a scene, losing her head or her temper, or in any way putting herself at a disadvantage in any situation.

Sighing unconsciously, she turned to her work.

Shortly before 5 Mrs. Eaton returned, followed by a man servant. She stood in the archway of the workroom while the tea service was being arranged near the fireplace.

"Well, how goes it?" she asked cheerfully.

"Finished, just this minute," Anne replied and rose to stretch her cramped muscles.

"Good. You're a wonder," Linda praised sincerely. "Now, come and have a cup of tea."

Anne watched the long capable hands pour the tea into fragile cups. Linda talked on casually.

"These committees are such a nuisance. I inherited them from my mother—somehow I keep on with them—I don't know why!"

SHE was friendly. She might have been pouring tea for a woman of her own circle. She had the rare faculty of setting people at their ease.

"By the way," Linda went on, "there's a woman on this committee whose sister is employed in the agency. Miss Ames. I've meant to ask Mr. Eaton about her. Do you know her by any chance?"

She is trying to make me comfortable by talking about things which she knows interest me, thought Anne.

Aloud, she answered: "I think so, if it is Polly Ames you mean. I know her slightly."

"What does she do?" asked Linda with genuine interest.

"She's in the art department. She does—oh, borders, lettering, that sort of work. She's really quite clever," Anne explained.

"I don't understand much about advertising," admitted Mrs. Eaton without regret.

"Tell me, what does she look like?"

Anne, slightly astonished, thought the question over. "Well," she answered after a moment, "she's pretty; she has fair curly hair and a round face; she's rather short and inclined to lots of curves."

"I see." Linda chuckled to herself. "I asked because this sister of hers is so amazing. One of those spare lean women who wear men's straw hats and dinner jackets."

"Dinner jackets?" Anne asked, amused.

"Well, practically. Very utilitarian, I should say. Rather Miss Andrews' type, only much more so. She must be 40-odd—old enough to be her sister's mother from your description. She is a social service worker and one of the more professional members of the committee."

Anne listened while Linda talked of the hospital work. She was entertained by the introduction of Polly Ames into the conversation. Anne had not thought of Polly for weeks. She saw her rarely, but, according to Betty Howard, Polly was smitten with young O'Hara. However, when Anne had accused him of turning the girl's curly head—through sheer idle mischief, not believing it and not caring particularly if it were true—Ted had grown embarrassed and had flushed as red as his hair.

As a matter of record, he was rather involved with little Polly, who lived in the village under the austere guardianship of her sister. Polly was an excellent cook, and it was to her he went for an occasional home supper, and also for soft consolation upon those evenings when Anne had no time for him.

Polly was restful even if she was "artistic." She had soft eyes and softer ways. She clung and had no strong code concerning kissing. Yet she was circumspect, discreet.

She was a "home girl"—a girl who frankly admitted that earning a living was a necessity, not a pleasure. She showed Ted sketches she had made of pretty, impossible cottages smothered in roses, with fat little chimneys from which smoke rose to a cloudless sky. She called these "my dream castles."

AFTER tea Anne took her departure. Linda shook hands with her and remarked absently, as she pulled on her hat, "You have lovely hair. It's a pity to hide it." At the door she added: "Thank you again. You've taken a load from my shoulders, Miss Murdock, and I'm most grateful to you."

Nothing patronizing there; nothing consciously superior. Yet Anne was distinctly and unhappily aware of the situation—Employer's Wife and Husband's Secretary. "I'm too darned sensitive," she accused herself, "and it's so silly!"

She did not go home at once, but went instead to her brother's apartment for dinner. She arrived there tired and conscious of mental let-down.

Jim Murdock, large, untidy and two years her senior, was home for a wonder and greeted her at the door with a roar of appreciation.

"If it isn't the little Business Woman!" he exclaimed, his arm heavy about her shoulders. "What you been doing this afternoon? Putting Somebody's Superior Soap on the advertising map?"

"No. I've been getting out charity appeals for Mrs. Eaton and feeling," Anne said, immediately restored to spirits, "rather like an object of charity myself."

"How come?" Jim pulled her into the living room and removed her hat and coat.

"Oh, I don't know. Just me, I guess."

"Well, sit down. Have a pipe? Have a cigarette? Have two? The missus is out in the kitchen. She'll be along presently. Let's have a look at you. Haven't seen you for a week."

He smiled down at her, perched on the arm of her chair. He looked very like his sister, and when he smiled at her his eyes were as darkly blue as her own.

Anne smiled back. She was fond of Jim. "How's tricks?" she wanted to know.

"Rotten. Hasn't been a good murder in a couple of days," he answered gloomily. "If some one doesn't shoot somebody soon, or drink poison, or dig up a scandal, or unearth some graft, I'll be out of a job."

He was an alert young person, a favorite on his tabloid. He had started in as a cub reporter but was now assigned to the more sensational cases, signing occasional articles. He made good money and spent every cent of it. He gambled it and he drank it, but most of it he gave away. Any one who needed a ten-spot could touch Jim Murdock for it and get it.

Sara, his wife, called to Anne from the kitchen: "Come in, will you, Anne? I've got my hands full."

ANNE went in. Sara was shutting the oven door a fretful baby in her arms. She wore a bungalow apron over her pretty frock. On one round wrist there was an angry burn.

She dumped the baby into Anne's arms. "Take Pete, will you? I've set the table and just as soon as I take the pudding out I'll put him to bed. He's teething and cross as the dickens, bless him."

Anne cuddled Pete, who was fat and warm. He was a heavy baby, gay and frolicsome when normal, but heavy-eyed and feverish now. He had his mother's dark eyes and his father's blond hair. His brother, 18 months Pete's senior, called sleepily from his crib.

"Give Junior a drink of water, do!" implored Sara, distracted.

Later they sat down to dinner, both babies tucked away and quiet for the moment. Sara regarded Anne enviously.

"You look cool, Anne," she said.

"Why not? It's cold as sin outside."

"I don't mean that. It's just that I'm always fussing about something." She pushed the dark hair away from her eyes and laughed.

"I've told her to get some one in," Jim complained. "She frets herself to death and she needn't. We can afford help."

"None that I can trust with the babies," his wife said. "We've had in a succession of incompetent colored women for cleaning and looking after the children. They're more worry than they're worth. But I have one now who takes the kids out in the afternoons."

"You work too hard," Anne told her with affectionate concern.

Sara elevated her charming nose, a little shiny now from the heat of the kitchen. "You should know!" she said scornfully. "It's better than being at the beck and call of some man who doesn't care whether you live or die!"

"Well, I'll take the man and an office and no hot stoves and my pay envelope any day in the week," Anne told her, laughing.

Jim grinned at his wife. Sara had been a filing clerk before their marriage.

"She's more to be pitied than scorned, isn't she?" he asked, but Anne sighed.

SARA'S narrow, anxious life seemed to her so tragic. Jim and his careless expenditures, his happy-go-lucky existence, appeared so futile, so wrong to his sister. She, the outsider, free from domestic responsibilities, looked at the husband and wife with concern. "Would nothing ever make them see how handicapped they were?" she thought.

"You'll think differently some day," Sara told her, as if she had read her sister-in-law's mind.

"Of course she will," Jim said. "We're pretty well fixed and dashed happy, even if we bicker occasionally just like the wealthy—aren't we, Sara?" he asked, looking across at his wife.

"We sure are," she agreed instantly, and flashed a smile at him.

Later, as Anne was leaving, Sara drew her into the bedroom, lowering her voice in order not to awaken the children.

"Sorry I was upset tonight," she apologized, "but things piled up and I was so rushed. And I don't feel awfully well. I think I'm going to have another baby," she explained gallantly.

"Sara—another!" cried Anne.

"Oh, it's no use scolding and being horrified," Sara said patiently. "You'd understand if you were married."

Pete woke and cried out. His mother went in to him and came back, looking prophetically haggard.

"I'm in for a night of it," she said with resignation. "And I'm so tired."

"Couldn't Jim——?"

"Jim has to go out," said Sara.

On the way home Anne pondered. Her tired mind unrolled shifting and kaleidoscopic pictures before her mental vision: the library in the Eatons' apartment, the books and flowers, the outward and visible signs of expensive ordered, cultured living, and Jim's flat that all Sara's care couldn't keep trim. Sara shouldn't have married; she had been better off working. She'd been good at her job, minor though it had been, and she had loved it.

SARA and her two babies and perhaps another to come; Jim and his drinking, his mistaken generosity. Jim, who was so clever, but who never would get far because he couldn't say no.

"You'd understand if you were married."

"Married!" thought Anne, with contempt and a sort of blind terror. "Not me! Not much!"

Yet she remembered the interchange of glances between Jim and his wife; quick it had been, but warm and secret—and disturbing. She wondered if Linda Eaton sometimes looked at her husband in that way, as if she saw him for the first romantic time and yet had known him always. But then, Linda and Lawrence Eaton were different. They knew nothing of this economic pressure of the demands of babies, the selfish, beloved demands.

And that set her to wondering whether Lawrence Eaton and his wife had ever wanted children; whether they missed not having them.

Reaching home, she put her idle speculations aside and managed a laugh at herself and her anxiety about her brother's little family. "Sara wouldn't thank me," she thought as she fitted her key in the lock. "But if she expects me to follow her example she's mistaken."

Marriage? A greater gamble than ever nowadays, thought Anne. To undertake it as the sheltered girl marrying the eligible man was one thing; to undertake it as a girl earning her living, her choice among eligibles generally limited to men on the difficult make, that was another—and too great a risk.

TREATY FOR LIMITATION OF NAVIES TAKES FORM

Under Leadership of Morrow, Committee of Jurists in London Hopes to Have It Ready for Signature Before Easter.

ALL AGREEMENTS IN SINGLE PACT

U. S. Advisers Not Enthusiastic Over Scrapping of Battleships, but Are Hopeful Congress Will Provide "Orderly Building."

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
hief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1930, by the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, April 12. — With Ambassador Morrow at the helm, the ommittee of jurists framing a nav l treaty, went full steam ahead oday in an effort to get the document ready for signature before aster. Morrow has been one of he main driving forces throughout he conference and particularly uring the last few days. His aim as to have a rough draft of the reaty in such a shape by tonight hat copies of all or parts of it ould be handed to the principal elegates for examination tomorow.

Whether or not the treaty can e signed next Thursday, as Amerian delegates earnestly hope, deends largely on the time that will e required for final approval of he draft by the governments conerned. Delay may be occasioned the Japanese have to send the reaty home and wait for formal pproval.

Hope for Windup April 22.

If the concluding plenary session not possible Thursday, postonement over Good Friday and aster Monday appears inevitable. he American delegates, in that vent, hope for the windup Tuesay, April 22, which would ermit them to use reservations aleady made on the Leviathan. The eviathan is scheduled to sail that ay, but on request would be held ack a day or so to accommodate he American official party.

The plan to wrap up all confernce agreements within a single reaty continues unchanged.

Next to the last plenary session ill be held Monday to receive fial reports of this committee of the hole, which finished its work toay.

From the point of view of the merican naval officers, who have een advising our delegates on echnical problems, the treaty is ot all that could be desired. It no secret, for example, that ost of them would have liked to e the United States come off with eight-inch gun cruisers instead f 18. They are resigned to the ccelerated scrapping of battlehips, but are not enthusiastic over t Variance With U. S. Policy.

Every step in this direction is en by Navy men and correctly en as a step toward possible comete abolition of capital ships. is prospect is wholly out of line th the long-established policy of r general board.

But despite what they consider efects in the treaty, American nal experts derive a considerable egree of satisfaction from it. hey are pleased that the unceraintv over the future of the Navy as been lessened and they are imensely hopeful that Congress, ow that definite limitation has en established in all categories r each of the three principal nal Powers, will provide funds for n "orderly building" program ver a term of years.
